NEW BOLTON (Chester Co.) — Dr. Robert Marshak, dean emeritus of the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine, was honored by the university, school and supporters and friends of the organization last Friday during a dedication of a greenhouse-style 200-cow dairy research barn at the school's Center for Animal Health and Productivity in New Bolton.

The dairy research facility had originally been named the Allam Dairy Facility, in honor of Dr. Mark Allam, who participated in Friday's ceremonies and spoke generously about Marshak, as did current dean Dr. Alan Kelly, espe-

FREDERICK, Md. — Members of the Maryland Dairy Task Force held a public meeting Monday in historic Frederick to announce, and gather comments on, a set of draft recommendations that would seek to maintain and help strengthen the dairy industry in the state.

Most of the 35 to 40 (attendance changed over time) people in the audience were either connected to the Task Force committee or had an interest in the stability of the dairy industry, such as milk processors and a few milk producers.

The delivery of a series of five separate draft proposals was done by different members of the Task

Animal Housing Expo At Lebanon Grounds Oct. 29-30

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Designing and constructing animal housing facilities is a major financial commitment. It is something that many farmers will do only once or twice in their farming career. This means it should be done right the first time.

Farmers who are considering remodeling or building new livestock or poultry facilities can learn more by attending the Animal Housing Expo, Oct. 29-30 at the Lebanon Fairgrounds in Lebanon. Hours are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., and admission is free.

The event, sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and agribusinesses, features commercial exhibits, speakers, educational demonstrations and displays that focus on building design and construction, building materials, building permits, animal care and comfort, nutrient management, odor control and other animal housing issues.

"The building and remodeling decisions farmers make today will

Worker Health Should Involve More Than Using A Mask

ANDY ANDREWS

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)

— There are ways to improve the occupational health of poultry growers. But those ways involve more than just "putting the dust mask on," said a noted national poultry veterinarian.

The keys are to know what the environment is inside the buildings and create a healthy environment for both the birds and people who work there, according to Dr. Kelley J. Donham, professor at the Institute of Agricultural Medicine and Occupational Health at the University of Iowa in Iowa City, Iowa.

Donham spoke to more than 200 poultry producers and agribusiness representatives Monday morning during the emerging environmental issues segment of the National Poultry Waste Management Symposium at the Marriott-Harrisburg Hotel.

Donham focused on the challenges to the health of growers posed by confinement buildings in general. Studies indicate that so many poultry house managers use dust masks and respirators without considering the overall environment of the birds.

Donham asked the growers and industry managers registered for the three-day conference to imagine being a grower in Georgia on an August day when the outside temperature is 104 degrees with 90 percent humidity. There can be

Set Clocks Back Tonight

The time of year to change from Daylight Saving Time back to standard time has come. The official time is 2 a.m. on Sunday morning, Oct. 27. For that extra hour of sleep, turn the clocks back one hour before you go to bed Saturday night. Feeding and milking schedules should be changed gradually over several days for best care of the farm animals.

At the farm operated by Luke, Mike, and Tony Brubaker in Mount Joy, two poultry houses contain a total of 48,000 broilers under contract with Tyson. In addition, there are 450 milking cows and 1,200 hogs. The farm was part of the poultry symposium tour. From left, John Schwartz, Lancaster County extension director; Mike Brubaker; Luke Brubaker; Tony Brubaker; and Paul Patterson, Penn State poultry professor.

ATLANTA, GA
OCTOBER 23, 1996

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE
Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds remained seasonally light to moderate. Offerings ranged adequate to ample. Live supplies were at least moderate; weights were often heavier desired. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 57 to 71 cents. Trade sentiment was generally no better than steady. In the parts complex, bone in breasts ranged adequate to closely cleared. Boneless skinless breasts were in closer balance, but remained at least adequate. Leg quarters were fully adequate. Wings and drums were in excess at several plants. Thighs were in short supply.

Frozen Eggs
ATLANTA, GA

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, OCTOBER 18, 1996. FEDERAL-STATE

Prices were higher for yolks, and generally unchanged for the balance of items. The market tone was at least steady with yolks in the firmest position. Demand was fair to good, and continued to focus on current needs. Floor stocks of frozen products were no more than adequate. Raw material offerings were barely adequate to adequate under a steady to firm market tone, and prices were unchanged to higher. Edible liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection for the week ending October 12, 1996 in the Eastern region were 13% more than last week, and 10% greater than the same week last year.

National Grain Market

Joseph, MO
Wed October 23, 1996
USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News
DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids were slightly lower as world wheat production estimates are expected to increase and the moisture received Tuesday in many winter wheat growing areas was a welcome sight. However, corn and bean harvest was brought to a halt, due to the snow storm, pushing bids higher. Wheat 1 to 3 cents lower. Corn 2 to 5 cents higher. Sorghum 4 to 7 cents higher. Soybeans 5 to 10 cents higher. Wheat bids were lower after beneficial snows fell in winter wheat growing areas yesterday. Light overnight export orders for wheat also weighed on bids. Corn and soybean bids reacted strongly to yesterday's snow storm. Traders concerns that some beans might have been damaged by the cold, wind and snow added support. Corn harvest was already behind normal and this will only slow it further. Indications there may be potential corn and bean sales in the works this week, offered strength.

Oklahoma City Feeder Cattle Oklahoma City, OK Wed Oct 23, 1996

USDA-OK Dept Ag Market News
Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly
Cattle Summary

Compared to last Monday: Light supply of feeder steers and heifers steady. Demand good for feeders. Steer and heifer calves steady to 2.00 lower with light to moderate demand. Calves comprised bulk of supply with greatly increased supply of Brahma cross calves. Quality of supply plain to average and well below last week. Calf flesh continues fleshy. Weigh-ups gaunt to average. Although calf market structure is not improved from last fall cow men are marketing calves in a normal fashion. Spring born calves are being sold on schedule. Last fall many calves were held over in hopes of market improvement. This does not appear to be happening this year. Slaughter cows 1.00-1.50 lower. Slaughter bulls 1.00 lower. Demand light to moderate. 850 cows and bulls sold with 80 percent to packers. Receipts this week 15,300; last week 14,186; last year 11,475. Supply consisted of 46 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs; 48 percent calves under 600 lbs; 6 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

MUM'S THE WORD

Painted daisy, Nippon daisy, feverfew, shasta daisy, rainbow daisy, or any number of others . . . they're all chrysanthemums, the bane of spelling bee contestants. Florists love them for their fall bounty and wide range of colors, including yellow, orange, red, rust, purple, cream, rose, lavender, and white. Feverfew self-sows freely; others can be easily divided or grown from seed. Few buds make for larger blooms, if that's your intent. The chrysanthemum is November's flower, and it's said that the unfolding of her petals represents human perfection.

. . . all looks yellow to the jaundiced eye. — Alexander Pope

TIP OF THE WEEK

Remember to pinch chrysanthemums back for a bushier look.

YAM AND PECAN MUFFINS

1-3/4 cups sifted flour
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
2 eggs
3 tablespoons melted butter
3/4 cup milk
1 cup cold, cooked, mashed yams
1 cup chopped pecans
2 teaspoons grated orange rind

Preheat oven to 400° F. Sift together dry ingredients. In a separate bowl, beat eggs and add melted butter, milk, and yams. Combine liquid and dry ingredients in a few quick strokes and fold in nuts and orange rind. Pour batter into well-greased muffin tins and bake for 20 to 25 minutes.

Makes 12 muffins.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Simon and Jude (Oct. 28) all the ships on the sea home they do crowd.

On the first of November, if the weather holds clear, an end of wheat-sowing do make for the year.

When the wind goes opposite the Sun, trust it not, for back it'll come.

OPINION

Clean Air, The Internet, And An Angry Public

Some of the comments made by speakers at this week's National Poultry Waste Management Symposium were sure to raise a lot of hackles, especially those who study trends and recognize the wake-up calls.

Wes Jamison, assistant professor of the environment and public policy at the University of Arkansas, spoke about how poultry producers must learn to deal with local officials and opposition groups — or face the consequences.

Jamison, who remarked at the symposium that in Arkansas, "poultry is politics," spoke about trends and changes in how the industry is reacting to the increasing amount of politics played as a result of a more affluent, more educated society that has instant access (through the Internet) to loads of information.

There is a saying, "environmentalism is a disease of success." Because the poultry and other food industries have become so successful in the U.S., affluence and education have risen in the general public. Consequently, people have the time to get involved in politics and are setting the political agenda in their own backyards. Social science data indicate that the general public is increasingly well informed about issues that indirectly and directly affect them. In a question and answer session after Jamison spoke, because of newspapers, television, and the Internet, Jamison remarked, "If a little bit of knowledge is dangerous, then we have a very dangerous public." They serve on the boards of townships and in boroughs. They wield enormous political clout — and can stop growth in the poultry industry at will.

Jamison told the producers that nowhere in the federal constitution is there a law giving producers the "right to farm" — even though many states have their own laws, producers must do more to protect what rights they have to make a living.

What is frightening is that Jamison believes that, in years to come, the Clean Air Law will be rewritten to include the esthetic aspects — not just clean air, according to scientific guidelines, but air that smells good. Could there be a time when you could be put out of business by someone living in a development who simply cannot stand the smell of chicken manure, and claim it is federal law?

People are also becoming more "atomized and individualistic," Jamison indicated. In the conference's proceedings, Jamison wrote, "... social scientists have noted a disturbing trend mount among the American public away from reliance upon community decision-making processes and toward individualistic decision process. ... evidence indicates that people are trusting less in traditional communitarian decisions and trusting more in themselves."

They watch a lot of TV. They hear the comments on a popular TV show, "Trust no one." Jamison indicated that as a result, "people do not trust authority anymore" and often ignore the results of experts.

These fundamental changes in American thinking are not going to go away easily. Jamison mentioned a book published by Lawrence Suskin, "Dealing With The Angry Public." Jamison said that poultry producers should read that and start to take steps necessary to protect what we consider America's right to be fed by American farmers. And, because the "conflict is intensifying — it's not going away," said Jamison, we believe farmers must do all they can to educate the public and take steps now to protect their future livelihood.

To Prevent Feed Spoilage

Bumper crop yields this year may force you to use alternative methods for storing feed, pile corn higher on barn floors, etc.

A rainy harvest season may make it difficult for corn moisture to drop low enough for safe keeping. These and other situations increase the risk of feed spoilage.

Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, offers the following practices to reduce feed spoilage:

1. Dry grains down and cool them down as much as possible before storage.
2. Separate fines and trash from grains before storage to improve air circulation.
3. Clean storage facilities and treat grain for insect control.
4. Use narrow cribs and aerate large, round wire cribs.
5. Do not pile grain high and turn piles occasionally to aerate them.
6. Use a mold inhibitor with new, moist grain when preparing feed mixes.
7. Keep fermented feeds fresh. Feed it more frequently and keep feed bunks clean.
8. Prevent plastic from being punctured or gnawed. Fence them off and control weeds.
9. After feed has been removed from a bag, seal it up tightly again.

To Be Safe

Harvesttime is often spoiled by accidents which cause injury, loss of human limbs or even life.

Robert Anderson, extension agronomy agent, reminds us that a few simple rules will help to keep this harvest season a safe one:

- Keep children off and away from equipment
- Keep all shields in place

- Always shut off the power before getting out of the operator's seat, especially to unclog equipment or make adjustments
- Adjust the ground speed to match operating conditions
- Teach children not to play contractors on equipment, even when it is not being used
- Watch overhead power lines when moving equipment
- Operate elevators and augers with care
- When operating any equipment on the road, be extremely cautious — check tires, hitch, lights, slow moving vehicle emblems and brakes.

Let's keep this harvest season a safe one.

To Practice Farm Shop Safety

A good farm shop is a valuable asset. It is also the site of cutting, grinding, chipping, and cleaning operations that may cause cuts, amputations, eye injuries and burns, according to Chester Hughes, extension livestock agent.

Fuels and solvents contribute to farm shop fires and explosions. Fumes may be highly volatile. Ignition sources include the open flame of gas-fired space heaters and water heaters and sparks from grinding.

Fuel and solvents should be handled only in well-ventilated areas and stored in secured containers. Use extreme caution with fuel spills in shops. Fumes may be ignited by the sparks from switches in air compressors, refrigerators, or light switches.

Keep a fire extinguisher accessible. Remember to always wear eye protection when grinding, cutting, chipping, etc. to prevent eye injuries.

Eye injuries are very painful, slow to heal, and often lead to loss of vision.

WHERE THE BUCK STOPS

October 27, 1996

Background Scripture:

Ezekiel 18

Devotional Reading:

Psalms 3:1-12

It was a startling new idea that Ezekiel was presenting to the people of Israel: "The son shall not suffer nor the iniquity of the father, nor the father suffer for the iniquity of the son; the righteousness of the righteous shall be upon himself, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon himself" (18:20).

This message stands in vivid contrast to that which has been the traditional Hebrew concept since the days of the Exodus: "...visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generations..." (Exodus 20:5).

This is the idea of corporate responsibility. If a man sinned, either his neighbor or his grandson might suffer because of it. So, the Jews in Babylonian exile blamed their fathers for their misfortunes. Their fathers had sinned and they were paying for it! As the old proverb put it: "The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge" (Ezek. 18:2).

WHOSE FAULT?

Quite contemporary, isn't it? "I am what I am because my parents made me this way!" "Now look what you made me do!" As a pastoral counselor I have listened to many people bemoan what others have done to them: parents, spouses, bosses, community, government and so on. Many of these people have a right to feel victimized.

But all too often we fail to recognize our own responsibility. Yes, you may have had a drunken father or an unloving mother and it has certainly affected the development of who and what you are. But, at what point in life do you assume responsibility for what you do with your bad or tragic history? When do we stop blaming others?

Ezekiel is saying that his people are not suffering for their fathers' sins, but for their own. "If a man is righteous," says Ezekiel, going on to list some of the ingredients of righteousness, "he shall surely live, says the Lord God" (18:5,9). And if a man lives unrighteously he shall be held responsible for his own sins.

THE PRESENT MOMENT

The prophet challenges them with an idea that, if not entirely new, was certainly contrary to the popular mind: "If a wicked man turns away from all this sins ... and does what is lawful and right, he shall surely live..." (18:21). Similarly, "...when a righteous man turns away from his righteousness and commits iniquity ... none of the righteous deeds which he has done shall be remembered" (18:24). In other words, the time for salvation is always at hand. It is the present state of our souls that is important to God.

I don't believe that Ezekiel's new concept is meant to stand in opposition to the old one of corporate responsibility. Both must be recognized as part of the picture. If I sin, God will not hold accountable my children, but my sins may have consequences that they cannot escape. Sins, individual and corporate, do often have consequences that are passed on from generation to generation. Yet, essentially, we have to be responsible for what we do with the lives that God gives us.

Dr. Hans Selye, the late pioneer in the field of stress, tells of interviewing two sons of the town drunk. One of these sons himself became a personal and moral failure; the other was one of the most respected citizens of the town. When in separate interviews Selye asked each brother to what he attributed the status of his present life, each replied, "What else would you expect with a father like mine?" One attributed his failure, the other his success, to the father's drunken misspent life.

The little sign that President Harry S. Truman kept on his desk, should be enshrined in the consciousness of each of us: "The buck stops here."

PP PULVERIZERS

6 Ft., 7 Ft., 8 Ft.

This model pulverizer is designed for use with CAT. I, 3-point hitch tractors. They are available with your choice of five roller wheels. 16 1/2" notched, 16 1/2" crowfoot, the 20" notched ductile iron wheel, 18" smooth, and 22" flat.

Also Avail. As Pull Type

P-SERIES TRANSPORT PULVERIZERS

10 Ft. to 18 Ft.

Rotary Frame Pulverizers; New PT10 Series Transport Concept. Machine weight is hydraulically rotated over the wheels for transport. This reduces draw bar hitch weight considerably and provides ample clearance for transport. Also Available As Pull Type.

X-FOLD PULVERIZERS

19 Ft. to 46 Ft.

The X-Fold pulverizers are designed to meet the needs of today's larger acreage farmers...and Brillion offers them in two models and 11 sizes from 19' through 46'. Now available with 20" Ductile Rollers.

The One Spreader Rugged Enough For Lime, Precise Enough For Fertilizer.

You know how tough it is to spread wet lime. And fertilizer is too expensive to waste. Our new 56i spreader does both jobs with ease. Plus, it has no equal when it comes to spreading "sloppy" material.

Stoltzfus Spreaders have been known as unique, "top-of-the-line" ag spreaders since 1947.

Farmers are still using Stoltzfus Spreaders they've had 20 years or more. That means your investment in a versatile Stoltzfus Spreader will add up to a very smart buy indeed.

Call or write today for a free brochure and the name of the dealer nearest you.

- Press-wheel ground drive
- Walking-beam suspension
- Corrosion-proof steel hopper
- UHMW plastic floor
- Lime: 3 tons / acre max.

... For New Construction Why Not Examine The "Chimtek Difference."

Chimtek Inner Liners are made of volcanic pumice and high-temperature refractory cements. Its round shape provides even temperature inside flue and contributes to efficient flow of smoke and flue gasses. The volcanic pumice in Chimtek liners adds considerable insulating value.

All three chimneyliner systems distributed by DS Machine Shop are of super design, super performance, and super value. With all their advantages these chimney systems often cost no more than ordinary chimneys. Write or call us for more specific liner information.

August Milk $15.30

ALBANY, N.Y. — Dairy Farmers who supplied regulated milk dealers (handlers) under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during August 1996 will be paid by handlers on the basis of a uniform price of $15.30 per hundredweight (32.9 cents per quart); the price for the corresponding month last year was $12.37 per hundredweight.

Market Administrator Ronald C. Pearce also stated that the price was $15.06 in July 1996. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

A total of 10,485 dairy farmers supplied handlers regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders with 951,319,073 pounds of milk during August 1996. This was a decrease of 5.1 percent (about 51 million pounds) from last year.

The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $146,522,030.70. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not premiums, deductions authorized by the farmer, or assessments.

Regulated handlers used

374,967,578 pounds of milk for Class I, 39.4 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test, and skim milks. For August 1996 handlers paid $16.34 per hundredweight (35.1 cents per quart) for Class I milk compared with $13.84 a year ago.

Handlers used 163,390,763 pounds of milk for Class II products, 17.2 percent of the total Class II products include fluid cream, eggnog, ricotta and cottage cheeses, ice cream, and yogurt. Handlers paid $14.22 per hundredweight for this milk.

Milk used to manufacture Class III products including butter, cheese (other than ricotta and cottage cheeses), and whole milk powder totaled 396,331,031 pounds (41.7 percent of the total). Handlers paid $15.04 per hundredweight for this milk.

Milk used to manufacture non-fat dry milk (Class III-A) totaled 16,629,701 pounds (1.7 percent of the total). Handlers paid $15.92 per hundredweight for this milk.

All prices quoted are for bulk tank milk received from farms in the 201- to 210-milk zone from New York City.

real problems in trying to get people to put the respirators on inside the houses.

Respirators should be used, but only as an adjunct to an overall house environment management plan.

Donham said, "About 50 percent of the people working inside poultry facilities have one or more respiratory complaints," according to a series of surveys completed in the past several years. Twenty-five percent of the growers have problems "we would consider are chronic problems," he said. "Of those, in terms of what is going to lead to some permanent disability, it's difficult to know."

While research on grower reaction to the health problems experienced is relatively unknown in the poultry industry, research has found that in the swine industry, "we probably lose five percent of producers over a five-year period because of respiratory problems. We don't know what that is in the poultry industry."

But evidence points to problems that the vertically integrated, all-confinement industry has in regards sometimes to protecting worker health.

Donham said the single largest fine that the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has issued went to a poultry producer in Maine. The amount of the fine? Five million dollars, "because of occupational concerns of the people working in the poultry facilities," said the vet.

The most important concern: particulate matter in the building over the long haul is the most important occupational exposure. Ammonia rides on the particles. But a whole host of other agents, potentially toxic agents, also are of concern.

These include endotoxins and other material that can prove hazardous to workers.

Donham indicated that in one poultry house, experts measured 1,589 endotoxin units per cubic meter — way over the 1,000 units recommended as safe.

People who work in broiler houses can be exposed to the highest amount of endotoxins per cubic meter, compared to layers.

And complains from workers point this out — people in the broiler industry, said Donham, have the greatest degree of symptoms, according to surveys.

Growers face more hazards the longer they are exposed. One syndrome is called organic dust toxic syndrome — with symptoms similar to the flu (tiredness, achiness, drowsiness, often accompanied by a headache, fever, and tightness in the chest).

Donham said that endotoxins are probably the cause of the syndrome.

Twenty-five percent of the producers in the survey have symp-university.

The design and construction of animal housing facilities has a long-term impact on the health and productivity of farmers' flocks and herds, and on the long-term profitability of their farm businesses.

The Animal Housing Expo affords livestock, dairy and poultry producers an opportunity to get ideas and assistance in the design and construction of animal housing and handling facilities. They can visit with commercial exhibitors, talk to other producers, observe a variety of displays and demonstrations, and hear what local and national experts have to say on numerous topics of interest.

POURED CONCRETE WALLS

You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs. more per cubic foot! Far denser. What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic — there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced toms of chronic bronchitis accompanied by wheezing.

There is some bright news: if corrections in the environment are taken and/or personal protection (use of a respirator) is part of the management plan, "people are probably not going to go on to have a permanent disease," he said.
If measures to ensure worker health aren't taken, long-term problems don't start showing up for about six years.

Producers should monitor their houses and follow the following guidelines to reduce the risk of long-term chronic health problems:
• Keep dust levels under about 2.5 milligrams per cubic meter
• Keep endotoxins under about

1,000 endotoxin units per cubic meter
• Keep ammonia levels in the poultry house to about 12 parts per million.
"Control of the environment inside the buildings has to be a part of the management process — we have to know what the levels are," Donham said.
Smoking also makes the problem worse. There is about a 25 percent increase in the percentage of people who have problems if they smoke, with a substantial increase in the severity of the problems.

"We can't pass this problem off as a respirator problem," he said.
Research has come up with standards that can be used now to determine what the environment of the houses should be.
(Turn to Page A26)

The manure is removed from the houses twice a week and taken into the composting facility, which picks the layer manure up on a conveyor belt and drops it down onto piles arranged in windrows.

The symposium included a production tour conducted on Wednesday to farms in the region that are learning to handle and market poultry waste. Marketing the product is "something I'm just inexperienced at," said layer manager Paul Wolgemuth, second from left, on his 210,000-bird operation near Rheems. "It's always a challenge to find a market." From left, Paul Patterson, Penn State poultry science professor; Wolgemuth; Rod Nissley, Heritage Poultry Management; and John Schwartz, Lancaster county extension director.

cially as to Marshak's vision of where human needs for veterinary science was headed, and how he helped the university chart its course for leading the field of medicine in maintaining its relevancy in conducting research and preparing new veterinarians for modern field experiences.

The dedication ceremony was overseen by Dean Kelly, and was attended by several hundred people, including Judith Rodin, president of the university, university trustees, vice presidents and all university school deans, state legislators and agricultural organization leaders, state Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius, representatives from other schools of veterinary medicine in the United States and Canada, the School of Veterinary Medicine's board of overseers, and faculty and staff from both campuses.

The new greenhouse barn is believed to be the first full-sized dairy cow barn constructed in the greenhouse style in Pennsylvania.

The technology incorporated in the Marshak facility represents a cross-section of almost every modern dairying technique employed in the industry.

For example, the facility uses a water-flushing system to clean its free-stall aisles of manure. The flushed material is then separated and the liquid recycled and eventually the manure is stored in a lagoon and used to fertilize fields.

The same feature exists near State College at the huge Evergreen Farms water-flush freestall facility with a 1,700-cow herd, owned by Wayne Harpster.

The greenhouse design represents the newest, and perhaps most affordable type of large housing, a fact not lost on the vet school.

According to facts provided during the ceremony, the barn roof is constructed with 111,600-square feet of 6-mil thick, semi-transparent polyethylene plastic stretched on a framework made from six miles of structural piping.

It rained during the ceremony, but with the white plastic, the arches and braces made by the piping, and the architectural design, the facility had an unusual brightness, sort of like a spiderweb in a fog.

The additional light may prove to be beneficial to the health of the cow.

The curtained sidewalls of the facility were also striking because of the solar screening and Six miles of structural piping was used to erect the new greenhouse-style Marshak Dairy Facility at the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine's Center for Animal Health and Productivity in New Bolton. This crowd of people is actually seated in a center aisle in the 200-cow freestall facility, beneath an 18- to 21-foot high white-plastic roof that uses 11,600 square feet of 6-mil polyethylene.

Dr. Robert Marshak, namesake of the Marshak Dairy Facility, part of the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine's Center for Animal Health and Productivity in New Bolton, addresses an audience of several hundred at the dedication of the facility. Seated directly behind Marshak is dean of the vet school Alan Kelly, while seated to the right is Judith Rodin, president of the university.

The Marshak Dairy Facility with the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine's Center for Animal Health and Productivity is built with an alley water-flush manure cleaning system. Here attendants at the dedication of the facility watch the first public demonstration of the flush system. The loudspeaker on the cow mattress is only a temporary fixture.

Dr. Alan Kelly, dean of the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine, gestures with outstretched arm for Dr. Robert Marshak, dean emeritus of the school, to lead the first cow into the University's 200-cow greenhouse-style research barn, named in honor of Marshak. With about 35,000-square feet of space, including a double-10 milking parlor, the freestall, cow matted facility was designed with many of the most modern features, such as the see-through solar blocking netting incorporated as part of the sidewall curtain system that is visible behind Kelly and Marshak.

windscreening — the sides of the facility appear as tinted glass — at once visible and solid looking, but at the same time allowing a complete view of the outside.

The solar netting is capable of blocking 98 percent of the sun, and the weather netting can restrict 80 percent of the wind and water. For additional ventilation there are 18 fans.

A double-10 herringbone computerized milking parlor with a rapid-exit gate, automatic take-offs, and teat rinse dispensers has a solid roof.

It too is similar in design to the Evergreen parlor, with solid sidewalls that are mostly able to be slid open for a breeze, or closed when too inclement.

The actual front of the facility consists of an administrative area, then a room overlooking the parlor.

From the parlor, the cows actually can be segregated into two separate milking herds, which was a function the School of Veterinary

Medicine's Center for Animal Health and Productivity needed to conduct some of its comparative experiments.

Each side of the parlor can be dedicated to half of the freestall area.

The barn is designed as an uneven cross.

A straight section comes from the parlor and serves as the main alleyway and parlor holding area.

The extreme of that section, opposite the parlor, is used for additional freestalls, but appears that it could be easily converted into an alleyway if another couple-hundred cow barn were to be added, as a sister to the existing one.

The freestalls are bedded with ground-rubber filled mattresses, and each stall has a water dispenser.

Headlocking gates along feed aisles are used, again being especially necessary because of the research work to be done, and the necessity for catching cows.

Part of the facility has a space for 48 comfort stalls where cows can be tied-up at specific feed bins, primarily for nutritional studies.

There is also a commodity building and bunker silos are located to the north of the barn.

The flushing system uses 16,000 gallons of recyclable water, and the manure lagoon can hold 10,000 cubic yards of manure.

It took 130 truckloads of cement to construct the Marshak facility.

But more than all of that, it took support and dedication of men such as Dr. Allum and Marshak, and those in the industry who helped provide support for the project.

The Center for Animal Health and Productivity at New Bolton Center was established in 1986 to implement teaching, research and service programs directed toward the improvement of health and productivity in food animal herds.

The Marshak facility is to serve as a living laboratory for the vet school and as a research and teaching site in dairy cattle health, productivity and economics.

It is also to enhance the teaching environment for veterinary and graduate students interested in the medical and managerial aspects of dairy operations.

The University of Pennsylvania laboratories also serve as part of the state's tripartite animal health system — Pennsylvania Animal Diagnostic Laboratory System (PADLS). The PADLS is designed as a way for the state to protect both the animals and humans from disease throughout the area, in addition to providing business support through health checks and verifications.

The research done at the new greenhouse facility should also help provide support to that program, through a better understanding of the actual environment facing domestic dairy cattle under modern conditions.

These wavy retaining bars hydraulically move up and out of the way of the cows for a quick release after milking in this double-10 herringbone parlor in the Marshak Dairy Facility. Notice the plywood Holstein positioned for participants to see how the cows would be situated for milking.

An overhead lights hangs from some of the 6-miles of structural tubing used to construct the greenhouse style Marshak Dairy Facility. Notice the vent that runs diagonally between the top roof arch, and the roof arch beneath and to the side. With sidewall solar and weather screening, the facility has great capacity for ventilation.

Automatic take-offs, computerized readouts, handy teat-dip dispensers and room to move on a good working floor are part of the design of the double-10 herringbone milking parlor incorporated in the new Marshak Dairy Facility for research at University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine's Center for Animal Health and Productivity in New Bolton.

Electronic Implant Could Boost Cow Productivity

RAPID CITY, S.D. — A device placed under the skin of dairy cows may help producers rebreed their cows sooner and keep better records.

The device, called a subcutaneous implantable device (SQID), is implanted in the tailhead region and features computer components for storing information and a pressure-sensitive switch.

The pressure-sensitive switch detects how many times a cow is mounted by other cattle, a typical method of detecting estrous cycles or "heat" in cattle. This information is stored by the device and can be read by a hand-held computer. Faster rebreeding means more calves during the lifetime of a cow and a faster return to the high milk production that follows the birth of a calf.

"Studies show that only about 50 percent of breedable heats are detected by dairy producers," said Phil Senger. Senger and Michael McConaha are the Washington State University researchers who developed the implant. Most dairy producers spend their time every day observing their cattle for the mounting behavior that will indicate that a cow is in heat. Senger says the SQID promises to make heat detection more accurate and less labor intensive.

Senger and McConaha presented the results of their research with the SQID to researchers gathered for the national meeting of the American Society of Animal Science in Rapid City, July 23-26. More than 2,000 researchers, extension specialists, students, government officials and industry representatives attended the meeting.

The researchers noted that as an added benefit, the device can also store information on genetics, production and vaccinations. "This should eliminate some of the pen and paper work needed to keep records on cows," Senger said. "A cow-side computer with a transponder that can read and record information in the SQID, puts information at the fingertips of producers and veterinarians. And that reduces the potential for error."

The SQID is in the early stages of testing, but Senger said preliminary results indicate that the efficiency of heat detection should be over 95 percent. "We do need to do additional testing in a more typical production environment to confirm that and to look for other potential problems."

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration must also give its approval before the SQID can be used in lactating cattle. "The FDA will look at the capsule to determine if there's a potential for breakage and it will also look at the components to determine if there is any possibility that potentially toxic materials could be released into the cow or the milk if the capsule is broken," Senger said. "We designed the SQID with those concerns in mind, so we don't anticipate a problem."

Once testing is complete and device is available commercially, Senger said he expects the cost to be about $40. "The improved heat detection should allow a producer to get double his money back in the first year," Senger said. "And this device will be useful for the life of the cow."

1999 Maryland Holstein Futurity Entries Due

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, October 26, 1998-A25

CHESTERTOWN, Md. — The deadline for entering the 1999 Maryland Holstein Futurity has been set for Oct. 31.

The 1999 futurity is to be designated the 16th offered by the Maryland Holstein Association and the Futurity Committee. The estimated value of the futurity is $5,300, according to the association.

A project of the Maryland Holstein Association, the futurity is designed to stimulate interest in breeding and exhibiting outstanding registered Holsteins in Maryland.

Four nominations (payments) are required each animal competing in the futurity. The first payment of $2.50 is due on or before Oct. 31.

Next year, a second payment of $3 is due on or before July 31, 1997; a third payment of $6 is due on or before April 31, 1998; and a final payment of $10 is due on or before Jan. 31, 1999.

A breeder may enter any number of females in the contest. Eligible heifer calves are those registered as being born between September 1995 and August 31, 1996.

Eligibility is maintained by continuing to make payments on time in subsequent years, or before. If an entered animal is consequently sold before the futurity contest, the eligibility of the animal may be retained by the new owner merely by informing the committee of the change of ownership and continuing to make the payments, if due.

It is the responsibility of the seller of an entered animal to inform the buyer that it has been entered in the futurity.

There is also a production award included in the futurity.

According to the official rules, $260 is to be taken from the purse and divided among the top five futurity winners on the basis of the animals' official DHIA or DHIR records.

The production records used are those started while a 2-year-old, and have to show the actual 305-day lactation production, on a twice-daily milking schedule. The amount of milk produced is to be corrected to reflect a 3.5-percent fat composition.

For an official entry blank, call John E. Hall, chairman, at (410)

778-1768, or write him at: 23315 Chestertown Road, Chestertown, MD 21620.

Checks should be made payable to the: Maryland Holstein Futurity.

"The good news is that (health problems are) preventable. We know . . . what kinds of levels, in terms of dust and ammonia inside the buildings, are acceptable. I think there are management and engineering methods to control those in the environment."

Donham said that OSHA, because of the 10-employee minimum, has left agriculture "pretty much alone." But as the industry continues to become largely integrated, "there's going to be more employees, so it's going to be more of a concern."

Dealing With Odors

People's previous experience with odors often dictates their response in surprising ways.

And dealing with odor nuisance complaints will depend on the individual(s) who file complaints against operations, according to Wendy Powers, graduate research assistant in the Department of Dairy and Poultry Sciences at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

Powers spoke during the odor abatement segment of the conference on Monday afternoon.

Powers spoke about how national situations — such as the spill of thousands of gallons of swine effluent into a local river in North Carolina — will dictate people's response. She has heard of complaints by suburbia "before the animals have even arrived on site."

In one recent study, 44 residents of a confinement house were asked about their experiences. They were a diverse group of people, different in age, gender, race, and education.

The findings: the people who live near a confinement operation "report significantly more tension, more depression, more anger, less vigor, more fatigue, and more confusion than the control subjects," she said.

Only trouble is, "we're not able to determine what's actually causing the people to say that these are the characteristics they're feeling." Personalities differ. And people react different ways to different odors, often with surprising results.

Of the entire survey, 47 percent of the respondents indicated there was an odor problem. The remaining — more than half of the respondents — indicated that there was no problem, even under the same circumstances.

The results showed that the people who lived in the area for an extended period of time were less offended by the odors.

And some indicated that the "nicer-looking farms had less odor," said Powers.

Studies were recently undertaken at Drexel University in Philadelphia to quantify the power of suggestion when it came to odors. Students at Drexel, in the study, were asked to perform simple mathematical tasks in a room that was intermittently scented — at times with a malodor, one with no odor, and one that was pleasantly scented. They were asked to report about odors and how they thought they did on the test scores.

When the scores were actually tallied, there was "no difference between the malodor or the control or the pleasantly scented room," said Powers.

In one case, those who conducted the test told the students that malodors would be placed in the room, when none actually were used. Regardless, the students perceived that a malodor was used and indicated that it negatively affected how they did on the tasks.

Powers noted that children under the age of 5 years old "like all classes of odors. This may be because they're more sensitive at that age and they may be able to detect something pleasantly offensive, or maybe because of the social pressures imposed on them after the age of 5. (They may have been) taught not to enjoy a certain odor."

Production Tour

The conference included a production tour conducted on Wednesday to farms in the region that are learning to handle and market poultry waste.

On one farm, an extensive poultry waste composting operation has been put in place to dry the manure and prepare it for further processing and marketing.

The challenges, however, of learning to market a poultry litter product continue to mount.

Marketing the product is "something I'm just inexperienced at," said layer manager Paul Wolgemuth on his 210,000-bird operation near Rheems. "It's always a challenge to find a market."

Wolgemuth told the 80 producers and agri-industry representatives at the tour that, six years ago, the family made a decision to expand the poultry operation from 70,000 layers to its present size. However, the township required that, because the farm was situated on only 170 acres of cropland, a plan to dispose of the manure was necessary.

Wolgemuth said they invested in a Salmat poultry system using battery-type cages with manure belts and a windrow composting system. The manure is removed from the houses twice a week and taken into the composting facility, which picks the layer manure up on a conveyor belt and drops it down onto piles arranged in windrows.

The manure goes in at 55-60 percent moisture out of the layer house and is turned twice a week. Temperature of the piles range between 140-150 degrees.

In December 1991, Wolgemuth was able to secure a five-year contract with an organic fertilizer company, which purchased the manure at $25 a ton. Wolgemuth thought he was sitting on a gold mine, he said — until the orders started to dry up by the summer of the next year.

The last time he was able to sell the material to the company was the spring of 1995. The "unlimited potential" of the product started to wear thin, which forced him to rethink ways to dispose of the manure and to explore new marketing possibilities.

Since then Wolgemuth has sold to several companies, but the demand is very seasonal. Wolgemuth said he recently signed a contract to take a large amount of his manure.

Annual output of manure is about 1,200-1,400 tons per year at about 25 tons per week. Those 25 tons keeping coming every week, he said, "whether we have a market for it or not."

One method has been selling the product directly in 33.3- pound bags. The material tests at 3-2-2. The bags sold under the Nature Pure logo retail in Ohio as Class III organic fertilizer for $189 per ton-bag, according to Salmest representative Rod Combs.

When Wolgemuth bags his own manure, at $3 a bag, it sells for $4-6 to retailers. "If we could sell a 3-2-0 (product) at $4.50 per bag, that would be profitable for us," he said.

Maintenance costs are $5 per ton of manure. Electrical costs are $2-3 a ton.

An ideal market situation, according to Wolgemuth, would be 10 customers who "buy all of our product in bulk." Wolgemuth recently advertised his product in Lancaster Farming and is looking for about $70 per ton.

Manure management can be especially challenging, considering one extremely diversified farm that has to deal with different types of manure at different times of year.

At the farm operated by Luke, Mike, and Tony Brubaker in Mount Joy, two poultry houses contain a total of 48,000 broilers under contract with Tyson. In addition, there are 450 milking cows and 1,200 hogs.

Surprisingly, the farm's nutrient management plan has a 1.11 animal equivalent unit per acre assessment, according to Mike Brubaker, who spoke to the tour group on Wednesday.

Altogether the Brubakers farm 850 acres. They produce annually

1.6 million pounds of chicken, 828,000 pounds of pork, and 10 million pounds of milk.

As a result, 28.4 million pounds of manure are generated on the farm. They use 167,000 pounds of nitrogen annually.

What their years of experience has taught them is simple: different types of manure have to be handled in specific ways.

"We're dealing with a lot of development pressure around here," said Mike Brubaker, and their application strategies have adopted to the pressures. In the past, all types of manure were broadcast; now, only liquid dairy manure is injected into the ground. A lot is hauled away, at night.

Liquid manure, because of its high water content, is applied nearby. Broiler manure, because of its drier nature, is hauled away to other farms that need it.

They have learned that if the "soil's right, and the weather is right, we haul the manure" for spreading, according to Brubaker. They incorporate the material in a variety of ways, including tilling, chiseling, or subsoiling.

The farm follows careful storm-water management plans and groundwater protection is key to the surrounding Donegal watershed.

The Brubakers don't use a starter fertilizer on the crops.

"We'd rather work with our neighbors in exchanging manure rather than going out and buying commercial fertilizer," said Brubaker.

"It's a real challenge when it comes to managing nutrients around here, but the benefits far outweigh the costs," he said.

Animal Housing Expo Features Nationally-Known Experts

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The fifth annual Animal Housing Expo is scheduled for October 29-30 at the Lebanon Fairgrounds, Lebanon, Pa.

The event is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and various agri-businesses to help Northeast farmers learn more about the details of building and remodeling livestock, dairy, and poultry housing facilities.

Featured at this year's expo are several nationally-known and local experts. Topics and speakers for October 29th are:

— Mike Williams, North Carolina State University, will discuss "Practical Solutions to Control Cattle, Poultry and Swine Odors."

— "A Milking Parlor for Every Budget" will be discussed by Doug Reinemann, University of Wisconsin.

— "Obtaining Permits for Agricultural Expansion" by Tim Royer, Timber Tech Engineering, Inc., Womelsdorf, Pa.

— A "Swine Demonstration" will be presented by Ken Kepharts, and a "Hoof Trimming Demonstration" will be presented by Dale Moore, both of Penn State.

Speakers and topics for October 30th include:

— "Nutrient Management Issues for Cattle, Poultry, and Swine Producers" by Mike Brubaker, Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service, and by Robert Graves, Penn State University.

— Don Rodgers, First Pioneer Farm Credit, ACA, Enfield, Conn., will challenge farmers to think about "Your Family Business Goals."

— "Greenhouses and Other Dairy Shelter Alternatives" will be discussed by Robert Graves, Penn State University.

— A "Hoof Trimming Demonstration" will be presented by Brian Reed, Agricultural Veterinary Associates, Manheim, Pa.

Farmers will also have the opportunity to visit with approximately 40 commercial exhibitors and learn about the products and services they can provide. Numerous educational demonstrations and displays will address a variety of topics related to animal care and housing.

Make plans now to attend the Animal Housing Expo. Admission is free. Penn State encourages persons with disabilities to participate in its programs and activities. If you anticipate needing any type of accommodation or have questions about the physical access provided, please contact Dan McFarland at 717-840-7408 in advance of your participation or visit. For more information about the Expo contact the show chairman, Dan McFarland, Penn State Cooperative Extension, York, Pa. (telephone 717-840-7408).

and workers, as well as cash flow and farm profits, so it's important to get as much information as you can to make the best decision for your operation.

"The Animal Housing Expo gives farmers in the Northeast an opportunity to visit with about 40 different commercial exhibitors who can supply the products and services they might need," McFarland said.

"Participants also can hear presentations by national and local animal housing experts, observe a variety of educational demonstrations and exhibits, and share ideas with other farmers."

A variety of topics and speakers will be featured during the event, starting at 10 a.m. on Oct. 29, when Mike Williams of North Carolina State University will discuss practical solutions to control cattle, poultry, and swine odors. At 11 a.m., Doug Reinemann of the University of Wisconsin will discuss options for a milking parlor for every budget.

Also at 11 a.m., Kenneth Kephart, professor of animal science at Penn State, will present a swine demonstration. Dale Moore, extension veterinarian at Penn State, will give a hoof trimming demonstration at 12:30 p.m. At 1:30 p.m., Tim Royer of Timber Tech Engineering Inc., of Womelsdorf, will discuss the process of obtaining permits for agricultural expansion.

At 10 a.m. on Oct. 30, Mike Brubaker of Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service of Ephrata, and Robert Graves, professor of agricultural engineering at Penn State, will examine nutrient management issues for cattle, poultry, and swine producers.

At 11 a.m., Don Rodgers of First Pioneer Farm Credit, ACA, in Enfield, Conn., will discuss making agricultural expansions fit in with family business goals and plans.

At 12:30 p.m., Brian Reed of Agricultural Veterinary Associates in Manheim will give a hoof trimming demonstration. At 1:30 p.m., Robert Graves will discuss greenhouses and dairy shelter alternatives.

"Producers who want to expand or remodel their facilities and become more efficient and agribusiness people who are interested in animal housing facilities and equipment won't want to miss the Animal Housing Expo," McFarland said.

For more information about the Expo, contact Dan McFarland at (717) 840-7408.

Animal Housing Expo Addresses Nutrient Management, Odors and Building Permits

When expanding or remodeling their livestock, dairy or poultry facilities, farmers need to be concerned about building permits, odors, and nutrient management. These issues will be addressed at this year's Animal Housing Expo by: Mike Williams of North Carolina State University; Mike Brubaker of Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service in Ephrata; Robert Graves of Penn State University; and by Tim Royer of Timber Tech Engineering in Womelsdorf.

The Animal Housing Expo is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and agri-businesses. It will be held October 29-30 at the Lebanon Fairgrounds, Lebanon, Pa.

The event also features about 40 commercial exhibits, educational demonstrations and displays, and other presentations related to animal care and housing.

For more information contact your local Cooperative Extension office.

Family Business Goals To Be Discussed At Animal Housing Expo

Family values and goals should help dictate the goals of the family's farm business, according to Don Rodgers, First Pioneer Farm Credit, ACA, Enfield, Conn. As a speaker at the Animal Housing Expo, he will challenge farmers to think about family goals as they plan the future of their farm business and contemplate remodeling and expansion decisions.

The Animal Housing Expo will be held October 29-30 at the Lebanon Fairgrounds, Lebanon, Pa. It is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and agri-businesses to help farmers in the Northeast learn more about remodeling and expanding animal housing facilities.

The Expo features about 40 commercial exhibits, presentations by nationally-known and local experts, and educational demonstrations and displays.

For more information contact your local Cooperative Extension office.

Animal Housing Expo Addresses Greenhouse Shelters and Parlor Alternatives

If you are thinking about remodeling, expanding or building new dairy facilities it is helpful to study a variety of options.

At this year's Animal Housing Expo, Doug Reinemann, University of Wisconsin, will talk about "Parlors for Every Budget." "Greenhouses and Other Dairy Shelter Alternatives" will be addressed by Robert Graves, Penn State University.

In addition, there will be a variety of commercial exhibits, demonstrations, displays and other presentations on topics related to animal care and housing.

The Expo is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and agri-businesses, and will be held October 29-30 at the Lebanon Fairgrounds, Lebanon, Pa.

For more information contact your local Cooperative Extension office.

Commercial Exhibits At Animal Housing Expo

Are you thinking about remodeling, expanding or building new livestock, dairy or poultry facilities? Are you interested in learning more about new products and concepts related to animal housing and construction of facilities? Do you want to make contact with people who can provide the products and services you need? If so, you should attend the Animal Housing Expo, October 29-30 at the Lebanon Fairgrounds, Lebanon, Pa.

The Expo features about 40 commercial exhibits in addition to numerous presentations and educational demonstrations and displays.

The event is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and agri-businesses. For more information, contact your local Cooperative Extension Office.

Eighty-five percent of all Lancaster County PA DHIA membership participate in the MUN option. The MUN is available to all members at only 15¢ per cow.

MUN Testing Cuts Costs

DAVID BIGELOW

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — "By testing on the milk urea nitrogen option through PA DHIA, I have seen a savings of $1200 per month on my feed bill," says Jack Fritz from Fritzglen Farm in Lancaster County. This was made possible by initially testing for MUN and getting the result of 17.5 mg/dl on a whole herd basis. A lot of research suggests MUN levels should be between 10-14 mg/dl with other research suggesting levels at 16 mg/dl in the acceptable range.

Through working with the veterinarian and nutritionist, Jack was able to cut his soybean consumption by about 250 pounds per day which netted a savings while maintaining his current milk production.

Fritzglen Farm is made up of 160 cows and another 145 head of young stock. This farm has been on test with PA DHIA for over 16 years. The cows diet consists of total mixed ration, pasture, corn silage, high moisture corn, soybean meal, barley, cottonseed and minerals.

The reproductive, somatic cell and milk urea nitrogen reports are the favorite PA DHIA tools used to make management decisions.

PA DHIA can currently accommodate any dairyman who wants to participate in the MUN program. Feel free to ask your PA

DHIA technician about the different options available or contact PA DHIA at 1-800-344-8378.

World Wide Web Offers Unlimited Opportunities

DAVID BIGELOW

PA DHIA continues to be on the cutting-edge of technology by providing Internet services for DHIA records and related information.

The PA DHIA DRPC can now be reached by any of an estimated 10 million computers on the global Internet via the URL: <http://www.dhia.psu.edu>

The page provides access to online records for registered users of the DHIA ARIS system, as well as personnel contract lists, e-mail, the latest resource material on MUN testing and reporting DHIA resource articles, benchmarks, sales and service information, and links to agriculturally related sites all over the world.

Be sure to utilize the world web page and feel free to also contact PA DHIA at 1-800-344-8378 if we can assist with your dairy operation.

NEW N4242Bt (X4334CBR) RM:99

- Just as consistent and high yielding as N4242.
- Our Bt technology gives this hybrid extremely reliable resistance to European corn borer throughout the growing season.
- Also offers some protection against fall armyworm and corn earworm.
- Adapts to the same areas and management practices as N4242.

NEW N4640Bt (X4734CBR) RM: 102

- All the agronomic advantages of N4640.
- Northrup King Bt technology adds the most effective, season-long resistance to European corn borer available.
- Also provides some protection against fall armyworm and corn earworm.
- Responds well on most soils under the same management as N4640.

NEW N6800Bt (X6534CBR) RM:110

- The same solid agronomic characteristics and disease package as N6800.
- Northrup King Bt technology provides exceptionally strong resistance to European corn borer from emergence to black layer.
- Also offers some protection against fall armyworm and corn earworm - an increased problem with late planting and no-till.
- Adapted to the same areas and management practices as N6800.

Md. Dairy Task Force Airs Recommendations

drinking milk to be sold. However, that again was considered a less-than promising legal remedy.

What is seen as the most likely avenue of relief, according to the proposal from the subcommittee reviewing this issue, was for the establishment of a milk-pricing agency in Maryland, giving control and authority of price-setting to its secretary of agriculture.

Its proposed concept also calls for the creation of a seven-member advisory council consisting of four consumers, one producer, one fluid milk processor and one retailer.

The purview of minimum price-setting authority would be across the board — for prices received by milk producers, wholesalers and retailers.

Both Virginia and Pennsylvania have established minimum pricing agencies.

In Pennsylvania, it's the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB).

The PMMB oversees the stability of payments to dairy producers by auditing records and requiring processors to be bonded for the milk they accept for purchase. And it keeps an eye on the stability of the dairy processing segment to help prevent bankruptcies.

It does inspections basically to help ensure health standards.

It also sets the minimum retail prices of fluid milk in Pennsylvania retail outlets, and has authority over wholesale milk transactions within Pennsylvania of fluid milk that is produced, processed and sold in-state.

Further, it has the authority to set maximum retail prices, but has yet to exercise that option, allowing for the consideration that competition exists to the benefit of the consumer. (According to some facts presented at other forums, many retail stores apparently do not sell at minimum prices, but sell above them.)

In an ironic aside, the PMMB recently came under attack by certain members of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives for having the authority to set a minimum retail price, ostensibly on a claim that it unfairly increases the price of milk to consumers and that it represented a form of corporate welfare by creating conditions for the continuance of rural dairy processors.

Also, those expressing desires to abolish the PMMB's authority to set minimum retail prices contend that its another example of government burdening its citizens, instead of protecting them.

And while Pennsylvania Gov. Tom Ridge has issued a position more in favor of doing away with the retail price-setting authority of the PMMB, at this point, with the Legislature out of session until after elections and only a few days of session left for the current Legislature, the matter is not expected to gain much attention, in lieu of the other legislative issues currently under debate.

In Virginia, the price-setting agency is the Virginia State Milk Commission.

It too is focused upon setting retail minimums, but unlike Pennsylvania, which allows for a "reasonable" profit (actually below the rate of inflation and depreciation, which means ultimately the business isn't truly profitable), Virginia makes it illegal to sell, in the state, fluid milk (Class I) below a calculated cost of production.

It uses a formula that incorporates the ability of the consumer to purchase (based on paycheck and economic factors), the affordability of other foods, as well as the producer's feed costs and transportation costs.

According to the findings of the Task Force subcommittee, it is their belief that milk is being "dumped" in Maryland.

"The Task Force was told that Virginia and Pennsylvania milk processors are able to sell milk in Maryland below the minimum prices enforced by regulatory authorities in their states.

"Conversely, Maryland milk processors must sell at or above the minimum prices in Pennsylvania and most areas of Virginia.

"This allows Pennsylvania and Virginia processors to sell milk in Maryland's unregulated market at low prices with the confidence that Maryland processors will not be able to compete on an equal basis in their states.

"It was also suggested that Pennsylvania and Virginia processors are able to use profits from sales in their regulated states to undercut prices in Maryland."

The recommendation by the task force is to pursue the establishment of the milk-pricing authority, and in setting those minimums the secretary should consider factors such as cost-of-production, consumer interests, and policy of adjacent states.

It also recommended a provision that processors and retailers can not sell below the cost of production.

To help enforce that provision, it wants the secretary of agriculture to make a determination of the presumed cost of production, based on industry averages, costs of processing, delivering and retailing milk.

Additionally, the subcommittee recommended a provision — similar to Virginia's milk marketing law — to provide minimum price relief to processors or retailers who can demonstrate that the secretary's calculated presumed cost of production doesn't apply to their product.

In this case, a processor or retailer would be allowed to sell below the set minimum, if it first provides evidence to the satisfaction of the secretary of agriculture that it is not attempting to sell below the cost of production.

As a side note, in Virginia, a processor may be allowed to lower its minimum price if it proves it can produce at the lower cost reflected by the requested lower price.

However, at the same time, if a lower price is approved, then all Virginia prices are allowed to go to the lower level.

The Maryland recommendation did not address the impact to the rest of the industry if a specific entity would prove it could produce for less than the presumed level determined by the secretary of agriculture.

The Maryland recommendation also includes an automatic termination of the entire milk-pricing program through a three-year "sunset" provision. A sunset provision would require a legislative reapproval in three years or an automatic elimination of the program.

Sell-by Extension

In an attempt to make Maryland dairy products more marketable, a subcommittee of the Task Force addressed the issue of the "sell-by" dates for dairy products.

It recommended that, "All dairy processors may determine the sell-by date for their dairy products, provided they submit to the Maryland secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene an indicator shelf-life study, acceptable to the secretary, which shows that the dairy products have a shelf-life equal to the sell-by date plus an additional seven days."

The subcommittee reviewed producer, processor and consumer concerns about extensions of the sell-by date.

In brief, producer concerns were that extending the sell-by date would reduce acceptability of the milk by consumers, reduce production at processing plants or extend shelf-life tremendously and ultimately lower dependability of demand.

Processor concerns centered on the competitive impact to them if they are not allowed to extend the sell-by date to the same length as competing states, and the disadvantage to Maryland producers in additional confusion and potential rejection of their milk for processing in surrounding states, if the sell-by dates were not extended.

Consumer concerns identified included general population confusion about the meaning of sell-by dates and interpret it to mean that milk would be going bad by the time they get it, and also there was some concern that the amount of unsold milk being donated to food banks would decrease.

Land Use Farm Protections

A fourth recommendation by a Task Force subcommittee focused on land use issues and the effect on sustainability in dairy farming.

Its recommendation was to have the state Legislature authorize another Task Force to take a look at issues that present obstacles and detriments to all farming activities, especially land-use policies.

In comparison to Pennsylvania's more recent farm-conscious and enhancement laws and programs — such as farmland preservation, the Clean and Green Act, legislative programs as Farm-Link, estate tax reform, aligning and having the governor order state agencies to work together instead of independently (specifically the departments of agriculture and environmental protection) — the Maryland subcommittee is apparently recommending that the state of Maryland follow a similar tact.

Further, the Maryland subcommittee suggested that another Task Force look at the effects of making it more difficult to get state approval for a residential or commercial development that uses on-lot wells and septic systems, rather than using land accessible to public water and sewer.

The return on investment is assumed to be greater for developers who use farmland and install wells and onlot septic systems, rather than otherwise available acres with suitable access to existing public water and sewer lines.

Teach, Establish Milk Futures Markets

The use of future contracts to help ensure profitability has been the tool of farmers able to store grain or other commodities.

Although forward contracts do exist for milk, dairy producers have traditionally not used that tool primarily because of the perishability of milk and the lack of an infrastructure that readily uses the contracts.

A subcommittee of the Task Force reviewed the possibility of developing such a marketing sys-

Chamber Agriculture Committee To Hold 20th Ag-Industry Banquet

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The agriculture committee of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry will celebrate its 20th Annual Agriculture-Industry Banquet on November 26 at the Holiday Inn Lancaster Host Hotel and Conference Center. This year's banquet speaker, Judson D. Hale Sr., promises to charm his audience (of 500+ expected) with Yankee Magazine common sense and The Old Farmer's Almanac lore.

As editor-in-chief of both publications, Hale is only the 12th editor-in-chief of The Old Farmer's Almanac since 1792 and the second editor of Yankee Magazine since 1935. He continues to appear each fall on hundreds of radio and television shows throughout the country including the "Today Show," "Good Morning America," and "CBS This Morning." He has been awarded honorary doctorate degrees from three universities and has authored several books.

Also at the banquet: Orion Samuelson, a nationally recognized agricultural commentator, will provide an exclusive video greeting for the Agriculture-Industry Banquet on the state of agriculture in the northeast region and the United States.

The George C. Delp Award will be presented to an individual in recognition of outstanding personal contributions to the agricultural industry of Lancaster County.

Judson Hale Sr.

The 1996 Century Farm Award families will be recognized by Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Charles C. Brosius for their long-term commitment to family farming in Lancaster County.

This year's theme is "Lancaster's Agriculture — Progress through Partnerships." The Lancaster Chamber is proud to be one of the few in the United States which supports a full-time agriculture services manager. Since the position was created, the Chamber's visibility in and support of the county's agriculture has increased dramatically to include more advocacy, educational efforts, and even a forum for the county to speak its mind in a town meeting format.

For more information on tickets or sponsorships, please contact Jim Shirk at the Chamber at 397-3531 or e-mail jshirk@lc.ci.com.

Allis Chalmers Combine Factory Working Display

A scale model animated combine factory display complete with 25 motorized operations will be on display at the November 9th Farm Toy Show at Lancaster's Farm & Home Center. The show's open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. and good food is available to purchase from a local 4-H group who's raising funds for their summer '97 trip to California.

The display, built in 1/16th scale, depicts the year 1950 in the Laporte Indiana factory when production was full scale making over 100 Model 60 "All-Crop" combines daily. To accurately authenticate the manufacturing operation, dozens of photos were obtained from archives of the Laporte County Museum.

Over 100 square feet of floor space are used and it took 4,000 hours to research and build by retired professional engineer, Everett Weber, who hails from Lima, Ohio. The only time this display will be set up in the East is at the Lancaster show after which it will be donated to the National Farm Toy Museum in Dyersville, Iowa for permanent display in the nation's largest farm toy museum and farm toy manufacturing capital of the country. Dyersville is the home of the Ertl Company, Scale Models, and Spec-Cast. While Ertl's three-year manufacturing projection calls for moving most farm toy manufacturing to Mexico, the other two continue to manufacture farm toys and collectibles in the United States.

Seven minutes of taped narration will guide you through the various steps of manufacture and assembly of the combines. There are over 150 lights and two working overhead cranes. Detail is flawless even to the 48-star flag and the wire-rimmed safety glasses worn by the factory workers.

Bring your cameras and camcorders, this is one display that you'll want to remember and be able to show others. The eastern United States' showing will be for one day only, that's November 9th at Lancaster, PA. At the same show there will be hundreds of other farm toys of all brands for show, trade, or sale. Free admission if under 13 or over 65 and older. Also, anyone wearing a FFA jacket will be admitted free. Directions - call (717) 768-3066.

Md. Dairy Task Force Airs Recommendations

tem to help dairy producers and processors lock-in milk needs.

It found that though milk futures exist, Maryland milk cooperatives have not offered such contracts to local farmers.

"As a result, milk producers do not have the opportunity to assure a price for their milk well in advance of production, unless they use the futures market themselves," the subcommittee stated in its report.

"Presumably, the reluctance of milk cooperatives to offer forward contracts is due to insufficient knowledge. Milk futures markets are a new institution and their benefits are not well understood.

"In addition, because of inexperience with futures markets, milk cooperatives likely do not have the knowledge to begin implementing forward contracts and utilizing futures markets."

The subcommittee recommended that the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service develop educational materials to help cooperatives be better informed and possibly begin to use the contracts to better manage price risk and perhaps increase profits.

According to Dr. Wesley Musser, with the University of Maryland department of agricultural and resources economics, the strategy for futures markets use would be similar to that used for grains. The suggestion is that milk dealers use futures to offer producers cash forward contracts.

"No other state or region has developed forward contracts," he noted, adding that Maryland could lead the way in that area.

In addition to the co-chairs of the 1996 Dairy Task Force, other members included Maryland Sen. David Craig, Sen. John Hager, Delegate Shirley Nathan-Pulliam (Maryland has a House of Delegates, analogous to Pennsylvania's House of Representatives), Delegate Anita Stup, Herbert Moore with the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development, Dr. Diane Matuszak with the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, dairy producer Edwin Fry Jr., dairy processor David Giles of Potomac Farms, dairy retailer Dick Tyler of Wawa Inc., member-at-large Andrew Lunn, C. Rodman Myers with the Maryland State Grange, dairy retailer Barry Scher with Giant Food Inc., member-at-large Brenda Schwaab with the Maryland Food Committee, dairy processor Robert Vaughn, and Myron Wilhide.

Agribusinesses Invited To Apply For Achievement Awards

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius invites Pennsylvania's agribusinesses to apply for the 1997 Achievement Awards to be presented to companies who have worked toward the development and expansion of the state's number one industry.

"Gov. Ridge and I recognize that there are numerous companies which have products of extremely high quality. We want to recognize those who have made significant contributions to Pennsylvania's number one industry," Brosius said.

The Agribusiness Achievement Awards will be given to two companies: one with sales in excess of $5 million and one with sales less than $5 million. Awards will be presented during the 1997 Farm Show Dinner on Jan. 10 at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center.

To be considered, companies must have corporate headquarters and/or production facilities located in Pennsylvania; and must be a producer, processor, retailer, or wholesaler of Pennsylvania agriculture food or forest products.

Companies must adhere to both state and federal standard inspection requirements, producing a high-quality product. Consideration may be given to increasing gross annual sales and increasing the number of employees.

Last year's winners were Naylor Wine Cellars, York County, and Furman Foods, Northumberland County.

Deadline for completed applications is Nov. 15. For applications and complete criteria, contact the department's Bureau of Market Development, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408. The telephone number is (717) 783-3181.

Pennsylvania To Receive $1.6 Million For Ag Preservation

WASHINGTON, D.C. — American Farmland Trust recently praised the federal government's commitment of nearly $15 million in farmland protection program funds to 18 states as a major step forward in the continuing national effort to protect the country's best and most productive farmland from urban sprawl. Pennsylvania has been allocated $1.6 million in federal funds.

AFT, a national farmland conservation group which has strongly supported such federal assistance, said the funds will help spare 50,000 acres of key agricultural land from development throughout the country.

AFT President Ralph Grossi said state and local programs have struggled to find the resources to assure the continuation of agriculture near growing metropolitan areas. Federal funding, Grossi said, will provide a sorely needed source of new support. He said he hopes it sets the stage for even more ambitious efforts in the future.

"For the first time in history, federal, state and local governments are establishing a partnership to protect privately owned, urban-influenced agriculture from destruction," said Grossi, who has headed AFT since 1985. "This follows in the long tradition of the federal government helping landowners achieve their stewardship goals."

Authorized under the 1996 Farm Bill, the federal matching funds to state and local farmland protection programs are the first ever provided by the federal government. According to U.S. Department of Agriculture officials, demand for the new funding was unprecedented. Farmland protection matching fund requests for 176,000 acres of farmland were submitted. The new federal funding will make it possible to protect 50,000 acres of the best farmland.

Since its founding in 1980, AFT has been at the forefront of farmland protection efforts nationwide.

In August 1995, it issued a report that showed three acres of prime and unique farmland -- the most fertile, least environmentally sensitive land -- was being urbanized for every acre saved. For every farmer who participates in state or local farmland protection programs, six were being turned away.

Chester Extension Annual Meeting Set

GUTHRIESVILLE (Chester Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension/Chester County cordially invites all citizens of Chester County to the 1996 annual meeting on Thursday, November 7, at the East Brandywine Firehall, Guthriesville. The doors open at 6:30 p.m. with a family-style chicken dinner scheduled to begin at 7:00 p.m.

The feature program will be presented by Greta Rech, storyteller, accompanied by Karen Semmelhack on guitar. Ms. Rech has been involved in storytelling for two years and is a member of the Patchwork Storytellers Guild which recently held their annual convention in Philadelphia. Ms. Semmelhack, in addition to her musical talents, is an author of children's stories.

Storytelling, an ancient artform preceding our writing tradition, has recently been revitalized as an alternative to the age of television and cyberspace. In their unique approach, Ms. Rech and Ms. Semmelhack, both wives and mothers in Chester County, share the vision of supporting children in a special way to help them discover the magic within and to bring out that magic again in adults. Storytelling helps everyone stretch the imagination and enables one to both visualize and verbalize.

Reservations for the annual meeting must be received by October 30. Tickets are $10.75 for adults, $8.75 for children under 10, which includes dinner and a chance for a door prize. For further information, please call the Extension office at (610) 696-3500.

Northeast Agroforestry Conference: Income Opportunities From Agroforestry

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — What is agroforestry and why should I consider it for my land?

How can I make more income from my land? What other products could I harvest from my woodlot?

How would I market these products if I grew them?

These and other questions on agroforestry will be answered at the Northeast Agroforestry Conference on Nov. 9 at the Days Inn in Hagerstown.

The conference begins at 9 a.m. and ends at 3:15 p.m. at the Days Inn. The cost of the conference is $20 if payment is received before Oct. 31, and $25 if received after Oct. 31. Registration includes breaks and lunch.

Registration information can be obtained by contacting Tim Hann, RC&D Coordinator, Western Maryland RC&D Area, 18450 Showalter Road, Suite 111, Hagerstown, MD 21742-1347, (301)

733-2973.

Many of the speakers at the conference will be farmers who are producing alternative forest crops. Bill Slagle is a farmer from Bruceton-Mills, W. Va. He grows walnuts, ginseng, shiitake mushrooms, truffles, and filberts on his farm. Scott Persons is a farmer from Tuckasegee, N.C., and the author of the book "American Ginseng: Green Gold." His book will be sold at the conference.

The last farmer on the program is Joel Salatin from Swoope, Va. An innovative farmer, he has authored two books, "Pastured Poultry Profits: Net $25,000 in 6 Months on 20 Acres" and "Salad Bar Beef." His presentation will focus on how he combines his woodlot with his livestock operation. Salatin said, "We view our 450 woodland acres as the engine that powers the farm."

There's More Than One Way To Recommend Fertilizer

NORCROSS, Ga. — Every year there are some producers who are puzzled by the differences in the amounts of fertilizer recommended for field crops by different sources. Although most people appreciate that soil testing is not an exact science, it is still perplexing to see recommendations that differ by as much as several fold.

There are two fundamentally different approaches used to make recommendations. One focuses on fertilizing the crop and is often called the sufficiency level approach. The other focuses on fertilizing the soil and is referred to as build-up and maintenance (or correction and maintenance). Both approaches are based on sound science, but interpret the soil test in different ways. Depending on the situation, either can be appropriate.

The sufficiency level approach aims to apply the amount of fertilizer which will give the most economic crop yield response within the current cropping season. It is based on a calibrated soil test and may consider other factors such as yield goal and prices of crops and fertilizers. This approach is most appropriate with nutrients that are not retained in the soil over time, such as nitrogen. However, for nutrients such as phosphorus and potassium, whose residual effects extend several years after application, the sufficiency level approach may neglect the long-term benefits of building soil fertility.

The build-up and maintenance approach focuses on building soil fertility to a level that does not limit the yield of crops. The soil test is used to determine whether the soil is above or below this level, which often corresponds with the division between medium and high ratings. Above this level, recommendations are based on the amount of nutrient removed by the crop, so that the level of soil fertility is maintained. Below this level, recommendations are based on the amount of nutrient required to increase the soil test level. The optimal amount of soil test increase can be determined by an economic analysis of the estimated yield benefits over a five- to 10-year period. Build-up recommendations can substantially exceed those of the sufficiency approach, especially in soils testing in the medium range. The differences tend to narrow, however, after soil fertility has been built up.

The economic benefits of building soil fertility are not realized in the short-term. When the costs of the investment are amortized over a period of five years or more, however, building soil fertility can build profits. In addition, the build-up approach allows greater flexibility in amounts applied in individual years as prices and cash flow fluctuate.

The choice of approach depends on the circumstances of the producer. For those whose land tenure is secure, who have a creative interest in producing high crop yields and who have access to finances for investment, building soil fertility is clearly a wise choice. On the other hand, those who rent land on a year-by-year basis have little incentive to build soil fertility. At lower yield levels and lower overall intensity of management, there is less benefit from build-up of soil fertility.

Evaluate your circumstances, and consider carefully the investment in building soil fertility.

Retired Couple Talk About Moving On

GAY BROWNLEE

Somerset Co. Correspondent

BERLIN (Somerset Co.) — Jim and Joann Kimmel, after a great deal of consideration, last January, hung up the milkers and closed the books on a lifetime of dairying.

The timing was right. They would be celebrating their 42nd wedding anniversary in 1996. Of their three daughters, Tammy, the youngest, had a farmer-at-heart husband, Mark Martin, who was willing to take over the responsibilities that his in-laws were getting rid of.

Mark had lived nearby. In 1980 he became Jim's hired hand, an obvious course of action considering that he was always at the Kimmel farm following Jim around.

Jim laughs when he remembers how many folks thought that Mark was his son long before the young man joined the family.

Meanwhile, their granddaughter, 13-year-old Bethany Seifert, was making interesting observations about her Pappy and Grandma.

The oldest of their five grandchildren, Bethany watched her grandparents move from the big farmhouse into a sprawling new house built at the edge of the farm.

She watched as time after time, her Pappy returned to the barn to help the younger couple, who, with their young sons, were living in the midst of the poignant memories left behind by Jim and Joann.

Memories from 1954 on, when the newlyweds had lived in half of the farmhouse while the other side housed Jim's parents, an arrangement that continued for 13 years. Then the elder couple retired and relocated to a nearby house and the whole house became theirs . . . a home for 42 years.

Bethany saw that the adjustments of retirement were overwhelming for her beloved grandparents. She hurt for them.

"I knew it was hard for them to retire," she said, "and I just wanted to help."

The eighth grader from the Shanksville-Stoneycreek School District said: "I'm always in a mood to write, but in the summer I never have a topic to write about."

Then she decided that she could write about the feelings of a farmer and his wife who retire from their lifelong work. She titled her story, "Moving On."

But after her grandfather, on August 5, underwent surgery on his back, Bethany decided the timing was wrong to give them the story she intended as an anniversary gift. She knew they would probably cry a lot when they read it.

Instead, she showed it to her mother, Sandy, the wife of Bob Seifert, who gave it to them a short time later.

She had guessed right. It brought out a lot of emotion.

Bethany Seifert is flanked by her Pappy Jim Kimmel, aged 65, and her Grandma Joann Kimmel, aged 61, in front of their new retirement home near Berlin.

But the good part was they had wanted to cry for a long time and Bethany's story gave them an excuse to go ahead. It was very therapeutic for Jim and Joann, who also have a daughter Barbara who is married to Greg Walker.

These days they laugh a lot, and since Pappy is recovering nicely from the surgery, Jim anticipates returning to his favorite sport, bowling, with seniors twice a week because he no longer worries about what is happening at the farm.

"I don't have the headaches anymore," says Jim, "but I still help with the work."

Somebody asked Jim what he tells Mark now, when he wants to go bowling. His answer was he has a toothache and needs to see the dentist.

"Beth is the 'lovingist' young lady," said her grandma. "I'm so proud of this, I think I would like to share it with other people."

Here is Bethany's story.

Pappy And Grandma Move On

A few months ago, although it only seems like a few days, a farmer and his wife decided their time had come to relax and settle down as their final years bestowed upon them. They realized they were older, no longer as young as they used to be and as they grew older, simple tasks and everyday chores would become a much bigger challenge.

They needed to place their beloved farm into a younger set of hands and teach them the lessons the older couple took all their life to learn. They chose this younger couple with great care and made sure that they fit all the qualifications that a good farmer must lay dear.

When the time came to move a step farther in their life, the farmer and his wife embraced and took the difficult step together. They watched the younger couple receive the heavy load on their shoulders. At the moment, the farmer felt the weight being lifted from him. They turned away and stepped into their new life together, full of happiness and love and of new ideas and adjustments. The couple watched their new life unfold before them, like the walls of their new house and responsibilities. They grew more and more excited as their new house rose to its full height, although it was only the skeleton, all cold and rigid, but soon to be full of happiness and joy.

Soon the house was finished and the farmer and his wife prepared to move in. With the farmhouse empty, the younger couple moved from their tiny house into the much larger farmhouse. They were now away from their protective barriers into the demanding life of farming. The young farmer immediately began work and soon understood what the wise old farmer was trying to tell him about farm life. The farmer's wife was busy moving into the new house now completed, and was home most of the day.

The farmer, although busy, found the time to help the young couple along with their farm chores. He went to the barn almost every evening, because he could just never completely settle down. Soon the young couple's tiny house was sold and yet another younger couple moved in. As they looked into the windows that were once so familiar they noticed different curtains and objects, and even a different feeling. A solitary tear sneaked its way out under the closed eyelid of the young farmer's wife. The older farmer, who happened to be the young couple's father, went home that day to his new house instead of the normal routine to the farmhouse. He went home that night and sat down and wept, for all of this was so new and unfamiliar. His wife comforted and soothed him, holding back her own tears.

Through all the years they will be living there, through all the hard times and good times, the wise old farmer and his wife will live in happiness and peace, just like the young farmer and his wife used to be in their tiny, love-filled house.

For now they could relax without worrying about the demanding life of farming. For once in their life they could relax and not worry about when the milk truck was coming. Now the farmer and his wife could be at peace with life having done their best to fulfill it.

Turkey Callmakers Provide Fascinating Glimpse Into Outdoor Life

LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster Farming Staff

BEACH LAKE (Wayne Co.)—

Hunters are packing their bags and heading for the hills in search of wild turkey this season.

Although wild turkeys occupy more square miles of habitat than any other North American game bird and there are more than two million wild turkeys than 10 years ago, turkeys are not the easiest hunting prey.

Earl Mickel, a prolific hunter of all game, writes that turkey hunting is the most challenging of all hunting with the exception of the mountain goat. His interest piqued, Mickel who is known as Mick to friends and acquaintances, started collecting callers and frequently conversed with other collectors.

He found ads for selling turkey calls were placed in magazines in the early 1880s. Old timers whittled out their own callers. Many designs were tried and others are being developed today. Intrigued by the stories behind many of the callers, Mick researched details about hundreds of turkey callers and soon accumulated fascinating stories about the people who make the callers.

Mick compiled a 254-page book, complete with 480 black and white photos and 16 pages of color featuring callmakers and the callers. He traveled 40,000 miles across the U.S. to interview 230 callmakers.

"Each call maker is as unique as the calls he produces, and it's high time each is recognized for his contribution to American folk art and this great phase of outdoor life," Mick said.

Mick doesn't pretend to be a writer. He wrote the book for hunters, collectors, and those who enjoy human interest stories.

An excerpt that exemplifies his writing style tells the hunting adventure of Keith McClung from Martinsburg, W.V.

Peeping Tom

"I sat up on an old gobbler on a ridge above him. After about an hour of cat and mouse it was show-and-tell time. He stepped out of the laurel just 40 yards away but on my wrong side. Luck was with me, though, because he would have to pass behind an ancient poplar almost 4 feet on the butt and I could shift and shoot when he reappeared. Everything went according to plan and I waited with the safety off. The turkey never emerged. The trees was only 20 yards away so I knew he only had a few feet to hide in. I searched that piece of woods and wondered how he could have sneaked away without my seeing him."

As I sat facing that poplar tree there was a log lying beyond it and at the end was an oak with a root ball turned up facing me. I finally gave up and decided I had screwed up again. I raised my head and took the kink out of my legs. It was then I saw the silver dollar patch of blue through the root ball. That very instant I realized I was being spied upon by that old gobbler peeping through a hole in the root ball. 'Tock, tock, tock,' he said and walked straight away from me."

His book even includes recipes and humorous incidents like the time he took his son Kyle squirrel hunting.

Of that event, he writes, "Kyle sat on one side of the tree and I on the other. Soon Cindy (the Hound) was on a rabbit and headed for us. Kyle shot, jumped up, and headed for a hickory tree. He pulled up short and said, 'Dad, a squirrel just ran down that tree and I shot when he hit the ground and this rabbit must have gotten in the way.' I preached a little about making sure of your target. I guess it was possible but not probable."

Mick said, "I've been involved with hunting from an early age. Growing up in rural America was a great adventure, which led me to appreciate the wondrous outdoors. I remember keenly my first muskrat trapped, my first single show .22, my first gray squirrel, deer, and yes, my first wild turkey."

"The sad truth is the only association with wildlife many children have today is through TV, which is more times than not biased against the taking or management of wildlife."

Mick wants people to know that wildlife in America abounds today largely because of hunting dollars that support wildlife management.

To order a copy of Turkey Callmakers Past and Present, send $23 plus $3 for shipping and handling for each book ordered. Pennsylvania residents add $1.38 in sales tax. Make check or money order payable to Earl Mickel, Route 1, Box 1977, Beach Lake, PA 18405. Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery.

Hunting, trapping, and fishing have always been an important part of Earl Mickel's life. He considers turkey hunting the most challenging of all hunting except for mountain goat hunting, which he classifies as miserable and dangerous. To help in his turkey hunting efforts, Mickel collected turkey calls, but it was the story behind the calls that fascinated him. Mickel traveled more than 30,000 miles to conduct personal interviews with the more than 1,200 calls collected.

These are only a few of the different turkey callers pictured and identified in the book. The book includes 16 pages of color photos and 480 black and white photos.

"Turkey Callmakers — Past and Present" tells the stories and history of turkey callmakers. Earl Mickel said he wrote the 254-page book because "Each call maker is as unique as the calls he produces, and it's high time each is recognized for his contribution to American folk art and this great phase of outdoor life."

Holiday Lights At Grings' Mill

WYOMISSING (Berks Co.) — Berks County Parks & Recreation Department presents "Winter Wonderland" as the 9th annual Holiday Lights program at Gring's Mill Recreation Area. Located in Wyomissing, the festivities will run from December 1 through December 30. The program features craft "funshops," weekend entertainment, Santa Claus and thousands of twinkling lights decorating the trees, displays, and buildings.

Free craft "funshops" for children will be held on Sundays, December 1, 8, and 15 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Santa Claus will be handing out treats every evening from December 1 through December 22 from 6 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. and on Sunday afternoons December 1, 8, and 15 from 2 p.m. - 5 p.m.

Sunday December 8th is a special day for children with "funshops" from 2 - 4 p.m. and "signing" Santa from 2 - 5 p.m. Gring's Mill is wheelchair accessible. The entertainment continues that evening with lots of audience participation, including Karaoke Kristmas for Kids presented by The Party People and Patchwork Puppet Theatre presenting "Twas The Night Before Christmas."

The "Winter Wonderland" booklet, which includes holiday recipes, crafts for children, a brief history of special entertainment, and other treats will be available in the barn. Barn decorations have been provided by Interior Design Works.

Musical entertainment will take place on weekend evenings, Friday through Sunday, December 1 - 15. The weekend schedule includes Tuba Christmas, Percussion, Ensemble, Crystal Strings Quintet, Jubilate Ringers, Basic'ly Brass, Polished Brass Quintet, Pretzel City Dixieland Band, and Fyve Woodwind Quintet.

Special appearances include Berks Ballet Theatre performing excerpts from "The Nutcracker" on December 6 and the Little Music Makers on December 13.

Chef Alan from Chef Alan's Restaurant in West Reading, will be demonstrating ice sculpture from 6 p.m. - 7 p.m. and the Full Circle Music Society will lead in singing Christmas Carols from 6:30 p.m. - 8 p.m. on Wednesday, December 4.

Be sure to visit the model train display constructed and operated by members of the Reading Society of Model Engineers. The R.S.M.E. is a nonprofit, educational organization dedicated to the preservation of the history of railroading.

There is a $2 parking donation after 6 p.m. Refreshments are available.

Holiday Shopping Can Lead To A "Joyless" Occasion

The holiday shopping season will soon be upon us. For many consumers that will mean big trouble.

Already overextended with credit card borrowing and other debt, too many consumers spend way beyond their means during the holidays. When January rolls around, they're left with a hangover of unpaid bills and unhappy creditors.

Here are some common sense tips on avoiding post-holiday financial blues:

- Make a budget and stick to it. Figure out how much you can reasonably afford to spend, set a limit, and stick to it.

- Recognize the warning signs of too much debt. You should not be increasing your debt load if you are constantly receiving collection notices, if you're always late with your payments, if you're constantly taking cash advances on your credit card, if you're continuing to open up more credit to pay off debts on other cards, and if you're always dipping into savings, or worse yet, if you have no savings. Cut back on your debts — not add to them.

- Reduce your credit card costs. Shop around, especially for bank-issued credit cards that usually cost less than retailer-issued cards.

- Understand the costs of credit card promotions and gimmicks. Don't fall into the "buy now with no payments to February" advertisements. Chances are that's when you'll have other periodic expense bills coming in that you hadn't planned for and you'll definitely feel the crunch.

- Consider alternatives to borrowing and spending. Use cash—when it's gone, it's gone! You're not tempted to spend more than what you have.

Holiday Spending Plan

1. Make a list of everyone you want to buy a gift for.
2. On this list of names, put what you would like to buy for them.
3. Put a dollar amount by each item.
4. If there isn't enough cash, is there another idea you can give them?

Keep a list of charges that you make as you go. Make sure this total doesn't go over the amount you can completely pay next month. If you don't budget or save ahead for holiday buying, join a holiday savings club--this will force you into saving.

Some Ways Of Stretching Holiday Dollars

- Wrap gifts in comics, newspapers—use pretty bows.
- Recycle containers for gift containers, such as, cocoa or cereal boxes.
- Give gifts without using cash in the form of redeemable coupons for: child care, house cleaning, yard work, house repairs, rides to church, sewing or mending, cooking, car repair, snow removal, and/or pet sitting.

There are many more that creative minds can discover. This holiday season can be a joyous occasion for you and your family if careful spending is used with a budget that is considered and adhered to.

Happy Holidays!

Homespun Christmas

LEHMAN (Luzerne Co.) — Arts at Hayfield will sponsor its eighth annual Christmas Craft Show on Sunday, November 3, at Penn State Wilkes-Barre Campus, Old Route 115, Lehman, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The "Homespun Christmas" Boutique will feature handcrafted items for sale including holiday decorations, wreaths, dolls, jewelry, furniture, clothing and much more. Over 100 artisans and crafters will participate.

The show is free and the public is invited.

For more information, call Penn State Wilkes-Barre at (717) 675-2171.

Flexibility is the key to staying productive. And that's exactly what you'll get with the AGCO® Allis 5650 utility tractor.

The Key To Effective Middle Management.

In fact, this mid-range tractor has a 45 PTO hp engine that offers you the ultimate in maneuverability. Its low height and low center of gravity make this the ideal tractor for working inside buildings and other confined work areas. And because the platform is low to the ground, it's easy to get on and off the tractor.

- The synchromesh transmission has 12 forward and 12 reverse speed choices, with synchronized shifting in four gears and a synchronized forward/reverse shuttle.
- These directional changes help to reduce loader and rear blade cycle times.
- The AWD models feature a true centerline drive shaft for more efficient power transfer and less maintenance.
- As always, behind every AGCO Allis tractor lies a 4-year/4,000-hour warranty that's backed by your dealer.

To get a closer look at the 5650, stop by and see us. We'll be happy to show you the way to higher productivity.

Tastes From The Pumpkin Patch

Most of us are familiar with the traditional pumpkin pie—creamy, spicy pumpkin filling in a buttery crust, but versatile pumpkin has transcended the “for pie only” distinction. Today it makes appearances in a variety of dishes—from soups and stews to breads and desserts.

Here are some pumpkin facts to keep in mind.

- One cup pumpkin equals one of the five recommended daily servings of vegetables in the USDA Food Pyramid.

- A one-cup serving of solid pack pumpkin has only one gram of fat.

- Pumpkin is a good source of dietary fiber, an excellent source of vitamin A as beta carotene, potassium, vitamin C, iron, riboflavin, calcium, protein, phosphorous, and magnesium.

PUMPKIN PIE Crust

1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
3 tablespoons granulated sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon ground cloves
½ cup margarine or butter, melted

Mix all ingredients together, blend well, reserving 2 tablespoons of crumbs. Press remainder into a 9 or 10” pie pan. Bake 6 minutes and cool thoroughly.

Filling

1 can ready-to-spread vanilla frosting
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 cup canned pumpkin
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon cloves
8-ounce carton frozen whipped topping, thawed

In a large bowl combine all ingredients except whipped topping. Beat 2 minutes at medium speed. Then fold in 1 cup of whipped topping. Pour into prepared pie shell. Spread remaining whipped topping over filling and sprinkle reserved crumbs over the whipped topping. Refrigerate 4 hours before serving. Refrigerate any leftovers. 6-8 servings

PUMPKIN WALNUT COOKIES

½ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups packed brown sugar
2 large eggs
1 cup cooked or canned pumpkin
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel or juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts and raisins

Cream butter and sugar together until fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Stir in pumpkin, vanilla, lemon peel, and juice. Resift flour with baking powder, salt, and spice. Blend into butter mixture. Stir in walnuts and raisins. Drop by tablespoons onto greased baking sheet 2 inches apart. Bake 370 degrees 12-14 minutes. Makes about 2½ doz. 3” cookies.

To decorate: spread cookies with a vanilla butter cream frosting. You can add drops of yellow food coloring if desired. Make a “face” with walnut pieces for mouth and candy corn for nose and eyes.

Pumpkin is finding its way into new and exciting recipes such as this Jack-O'-Lantern Ice Cream Cake.

JACK-O'-LANTERN ICE CREAM CAKE

1 package fudge brownie mix
16-ounce can solid-pack pumpkin
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup lightly salted peanuts
½ cup chunky peanut butter
3 pints vanilla ice cream, softened

Chocolate peanut butter cups and candies as desired
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Prepare brownie mix according to package directions. Pour batter evenly into buttered 9-inch spring-form pan. Bake about 25 minutes, or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool. Chill in freezer 30 minutes. Meanwhile combine pumpkin, sugar, peanuts, and peanut butter; stir into ice cream just until blended thoroughly. Spread evenly over chilled brownie in pan. With spatula, make indentations to resemble pumpkin lines. Cover and freeze several hours or overnight until firm. Before serving, run spatula around sides of pan to loosen before releasing spring. Remove sides of pan. Decorate with candies as desired.

PUMPKIN CHOCOLATE CHIP WHOOPIE PIES

1 cup cooked pumpkin
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sugar
½ cup salad oil
1 egg
Combine ingredients. Sift together the following:
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt

Add pumpkin mixture and mixed dry ingredients. Add 1 teaspoon baking soda dissolved in 1 teaspoon milk. Add ¼ cup chocolate chips and ½ cup nuts. Bake 375 degrees until center seems firm. (Note: Mrs. Weaver usually triples this recipe.)

Fill with fluffy white frosting.

PUMPKIN BREAD

3½ cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon cloves
2 teaspoons baking soda
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon cinnamon
3 cups sugar
1 cup corn oil
1 cup cold water
4 eggs, beaten
2 cups canned pumpkin
Combine all ingredients in large mixing bowl. Mix well with electric mixer 3 minutes. Divide into 3 greased and floured loaf pans. Bake 350 degrees for 1 hour. Cool 15 minutes in pan. (Freezes well.)

PUMPKIN FUDGE

2 cups sugar
3 tablespoons pumpkin
¼ teaspoon cornstarch
½ teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
½ cup milk, evaporated milk or cream
½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine first five ingredients in a saucepan. Heat until it passes “fudge test,” which involves dropping a small amount into cold water and if it forms a ball, the fudge should be removed from the heat. Add vanilla and beat with mixer until smooth. Pour into a buttered pan and cut when cool.

Pennsylvania Lamb and Wool Queen Andrea Musser believes the best way for producers to promote lamb is to serve it to guests. Here is one of her favorite dishes she serves to guests.

If you aren't a producer, buy lamb from a producer or from a supermarket but be certain to request American lamb, which is tender and lean.

To learn more about the lamb and wool queen who is from Ohio but reigns in Pennsylvania, look for a story about her in this section of the paper.

HAWAIIAN LAMB MINI-KABOBS

1 pound boneless leg of lamb, cubed
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ cup French dressing
3 slices bacon, cut in 1-inch pieces
14-ounce can pineapple chunks, each piece cut in half Melted butter

In a shallow glass dish, combine dressing and garlic. Add lamb; marinate for one hour or overnight in refrigerator. Alternate lamb, bacon, and pineapple on mini skewers or round toothpicks. Brush with melted butter. Broil 5-8 inches from source of heat for 5 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 60-70 appetizers.

Bats Make Good Neighbors

October is a good month to pay tribute to everyone's Halloween favorite, our local wild bats. Bats have played an important role these past few months when mosquitoes were at their worst. Bats consumed a quarter million mosquitoes each night.

Great and small gardeners may never have seen a winter roosting bat. Why? They prefer caves and old mines. But, in the summer, many bats roost in buildings, especially barns, hollow trees, beneath tree bark, tree foliage or rock piles.

These summer roosts also include rock crevices, tree cavities and tree foliage where bats rear their young. Eight species of bats are common to Pennsylvania, including the hoary bats, pipistrelle bat, the little brown bat and the red bat.

Bats live in a variety of habitats, including wetlands, fields, forests, cities, and suburbs. All bats in Pennsylvania eat insects and capture their prey in flight. Some are strictly forest-dwellers. They usually feed in open areas where insects swarm, such as over open water, in forest clearings, along forest edges, or farm fields, and around street lights. Bats are beneficial because they are efficient predators of insects. A single bat, for instance, may consume as many as 3,000 insects each night.

October and November are good times to bat-proof a home. One-way doors can be installed to evict bats. Once all the bats have left a room or attic, the remaining bats entrance can be sealed. Just be sure, the bats have left the building.

Big brown bats occasionally overwinter in a building by hibernating in the attic or basement. They prefer flying over gardens in agricultural areas feeding on june bugs, cucumber beetles, green and brown stinkbugs and leafhoppers. The red, hoary and silver-haired bats feed on forest pests like tent caterpillar moths.

If you encounter a bat flying in a room.

- Shut all doors leading into other rooms to confine the bat to as small an area as possible.

- Open all windows and doors leading outside to give the bat a chance to escape.

- Remove pets from the room, leave the lights on, stand quietly against a wall or door, and watch the bat until it leaves.

- Do not try to chase the bat toward a window. Just allow it to get its bearings, and within 10 to 15 minutes the bat should settle down, locate the open door or window, and fly out of the room.

If the bat tires and comes to rest on a curtain or wall, you can easily remove it without directly touching it.

- Put on a pair of leather gardening or work gloves.

- Place a container, such as a coffee can or large plastic bowl, over the bat as it rests on the wall. At this point, the bat is probably exhausted and disoriented and will not fly as you approach it.

- Slide a piece of rigid cardboard between the container and the wall to trap the bat. Hold the cardboard firmly against the container and carry the container outside.

- Place the container (facing away from you) on a secure surface above the ground — such as on a ledge, or against a tree — and slide away the cardboard. The bat will not fly right away, so releasing it above the ground keeps it safe from predators until it has its bearings. Unlike birds, most bats must drop from a perch and catch air under their wings before they can fly.

Occasionally, big brown bats may overwinter in a building and arouse during warm weather in mid-winter or early spring. Bats found in a building at this time are usually underweight and need special care to survive. If you find a bat in a building during the winter, capture it as described above, keep it in a escape-proof container in a warm, dark place, and call a local wildlife rehabilitator.

QUESTION — Yvonne Musser, Lancaster, said she would like a recipe for buttermilk salad like they serve at Akron Restaurant in Akron.

ANSWER — Lou Ann Pyle of Wilmington, Delaware, was looking for a recipe for Italian Cuccidata cookies. G. Minckler sends this recipe for Cuccidata (Grandmother's Christmas Cakes).

Cuccidata Pastry

1½ lbs. cake flour
 3 teaspoons baking powder
 ¾ cup sugar
 ½ teaspoon salt
 1½ cups shortening
 2 cups water
 3 tablespoons colored sprinkles
 Powdered sugar
 Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar, and salt on board. Cut in shortening. Mix. Gradually add sufficient water to make dough medium soft and manageable. Knead about 10 minutes until smooth and satiny. Place in covered bowl. Set aside 1 hour or until ready to use.

Filling

1 lb. seedless raisins
 1 lb. dry pulled figs
 4 tablespoons orange juice
 Rind of 1 lemon
 ½ lb. shelled, toasted almonds
 ½ lbs. shelled, toasted filberts
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 Rind of 1 orange
 Combine all ingredients and put through food grinder, using coarse blade. Add a teaspoon of cold water now and then while grinding. Place mixture in covered bowl. Set aside at room temperature until ready to use.

Divide dough into 3 parts. Roll out 1 part into rectangle about ¼ " thick. Cut into strips 4 inches wide. Place filling in center of strip, ¼ " thick by ¾ " wide. Fold dough over filling; press edges together. This forms filled tube. Cut diagonally into 3- or 4-inch pieces; slit top of dough through center with sharp-pointed knife. Flute both sides of slit with fingers. Filled tubes may be shaped into rings and slit and fluted as for diagonal pieces.

Roll out balance of dough ¼ " thick on lightly floured board. Cut with fancy-shaped cookie cutters, making two of same pattern. Spread filling on one piece; cover with matching piece. Moisten edges and press together with tines of fork; flute tops into fancy designs and prick with fork once. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderate oven (375 degrees) 25 minutes, or until light brown. Remove from oven. Sprinkle with colored sprinkles. Cool. Dust with powdered sugar. Yields about 2½ dozen cakes, depending upon shapes and sizes. Very tasty and festive looking. Doll-shaped cookie cutters about 6 inches long, animals, and baskets are most attractive. The children, as well as grown-ups, enjoy them.

ANSWER — Julia Johnson of Howard wanted a recipe for Bee Sting Cake. Nancy Kramer of Newmanstown, Pa., sent one that appropriately has a small amount of honey in it.

Bee Sting Cake

1¼ to 1½ cups unsifted flour
 2 tablespoons sugar
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
 1 package dry yeast
 ½ cup milk
 ¼ cup water
 2 tablespoons margarine
 1 egg, room temperature
 Coconut topping

Vanilla cream filling

In large bowl thoroughly mix ½ cup flour, sugar, salt, lemon peel, and undissolved yeast. Combine milk, water, 2 tablespoons margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120 degrees F. to 130 degrees F.). Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add egg and ½ cup flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Cover. Let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubles in bulk, about 30 minutes.

Meanwhile prepare coconut topping, followed by vanilla cream filling.

Once batter has doubled in bulk, stir the batter down and spread into greased 8-inch square pan. Cover; let rise in warm place free from draft, until again double in bulk about 30 minutes.

Carefully spread cooled topping over batter. Bake 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack. When cool, split cake in half horizontally. Spread vanilla cream filling over bottom half of cake. Replace top half. Serve at once or refrigerate until serving time. Cut into squares to serve. Serves 9.

Coconut Topping

Combine ¾ cup coconut, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ cup margarine, 1 tablespoon toasted slivered almonds, 2 tablespoons honey, 1 tablespoon milk, and ¼ teaspoon almond extract in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat until margarine and sugar are melted. Bring to boil and simmer 1 minute. Cool.

Vanilla Cream Filling

Combine 1 package regular size vanilla pudding, 1½ cups milk, and ½ cup heavy cream in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring steadily, until pudding comes to a full boil. Pour into bowl, place wax paper on surface of pudding. Chill until firm and ready to fill cake.

PUMPKIN BARS

4 eggs
 1½ cups granulated sugar
 1 cup cooking oil
 2 cups pumpkin
 2 cups all-purpose flour
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened

In mixing bowl, beat together eggs, granulated sugar, oil and pumpkin until light and fluffy. Stir together flour, baking powder, spices, (Spices can be put on top if preferred.) and soda. Add to pumpkin mixture and mix thoroughly. Spread batter into ungreased 15X10X1 baking pan. Bake 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes. Cool. Frost with cream cheese icing. Cut into bars. Makes 2 doz.

PUMPKIN SHEET CAKE

4 eggs
 1½ cups sugar
 1 cup vegetable oil
 2 cups cooked, mashed pumpkin or 16 oz. can pumpkin
 2 cups all-purpose flour
 2 teaspoons cinnamon
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1 teaspoon salt
 In mixing bowl beat eggs, sugar, oil, and pumpkin. Combine flour, cinnamon, baking powder, baking soda, and salt. Gradually add to pumpkin mixture and mix well. Pour into an ungreased 15X10X1 baking pan. Bake 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes. Cool completely.

FROSTING

3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
 2 cups confectioners' sugar
 ¼ cup butter or margarine
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1-2 tablespoons milk
 ¼ cup chopped nuts
 Beat cream cheese, sugar, butter, and vanilla in small bowl. Add enough milk to achieve desired spreading consistency. Sprinkle nuts over frosted cake.

PUMPKIN FUDGE

3 cups granulated sugar
 ¼ cup butter or margarine
 1 small can or ¾ cup evaporated milk
 ½ cup solid pack canned pumpkin
 1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
 1 12-ounce package butterscotch morsels
 1 7-ounce jar marshmallow creme

1 cup chopped toasted almonds
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 In a heavy saucepan place sugar, butter, evaporated milk, pumpkin, and pumpkin pie spice. Over medium heat, stirring constantly, cook until it reaches 234 degrees on a candy thermometer. Remove from heat and stir in butterscotch morsels, then marshmallow creme. Stir in the toasted almonds and vanilla until well-blended.

Spread into a greased 9X13 baking pan. Cool to room temperature. Cut into serving size pieces. Makes approximately 3 lbs. (Note: this is a very good recipe and makes good Christmas gift)

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Frank Bonk, Perth Amboy, N.J., wanted a recipe for refrigerator pickles and one for green tomato pickles. Thanks to Frances Westfall, New Oxford; Kay Miller, Aliquippa, and others for sending recipes.

Green Tomato Pickles

- 2½ cups distilled white vinegar
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- ¼ cup dill seed
- 1 tablespoon mustard seed
- 1 tablespoon celery seed
- 1 tablespoon pickling salt
- 5 pounds green tomatoes, washed, cored
- 1 large onion, thinly sliced

In a 6 to 8-quart saucepan, combine first six ingredients. Bring to a boil. Cut tomatoes into ½ -inch thick slices; discard end pieces. Add tomatoes and onion to syrup. Reduce heat and simmer for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Immediately fill hot, sterilized pint jars with tomatoes and onion, leaving ½ -inch headspace. Immediately pour hot syrup over tomatoes, leaving ½ -inch headspace. Carefully run a nonmetallic utensil down inside of jars to remove trapped air bubbles. Wipe tops and threads of jars clean. Place hot lids on jars and screw bands on firmly. Process in boiling water canner for 5 minutes. Makes 5 to 6 pints.

Green Tomato Butter

- 6 pounds green tomatoes, stemmed and coarsely chopped
- 2 tablespoons ground ginger
- 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground allspice
- 5 pounds brown sugar
- Juice of 2 lemons
- 2 cups water

In a large stainless steel or enamel pot, combine tomatoes with the remaining ingredients. Simmer for 2 to 3 hours or until thick, stirring frequently. Strain and reheat to boiling. Fill hot, sterilized pint jars with the tomato mixture, leaving ¼ -inch headspace. Seal according to manufacturers' directions. Yield: 4 pints.

Refrigerator Sun Pickles

- 2 to 3 quarts vinegar
- 2 sprigs fresh dill
- 3 cloves garlic, chopped

Wash cucumbers, and size may be used as long as they are not overripe. Cut ¼ -inch off each end. If cucumbers are large, use a sharp paring knife and slice through the cucumber making deep slices beginning ¼ -inch from end to within ¼ -inch of the other end. These slashes enables the vinegar to penetrate the cucumber and also makes it easier to divide the pickles into spears.

Pack prepared cucumbers in the jar vertically. Don't overpack. Add vinegar, dill, and garlic until the completely covers the cucumbers.

Expose the jar to sunlight for two days for a total of at least 14 hours of sunlight. Chill and eat. Store in the refrigerator.

Dairy Farmers Promotion Investment

VERNON, N.Y. — The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. will be holding district meetings to update local dairy farmers on how their promotion investment is being used to increase milk sales through publicity, advertising, nutrition education and retail programs. Pennsylvania Streams and Lakes GREAT GIFT!

Stream MAP of Pennsylvania

Why every fisherman needs this map

It is estimated that 10% of all the fishermen catch 90% of the fish. Regardless of which group you fall into... there's a sure way to up your odds... simply try new fishing waters. Fish where few fishermen ever fish.

Pennsylvania is loaded with great fishing waters...many of them overlooked. From the Lake Erie tributaries to the Delaware River...thousands of miles of streams, lakes and rivers are now easy-to-locate on one map.

Professor Higbee's Stream Map of Pennsylvania is the first and only highly detailed map of its kind. This 3 foot by 5 foot color map shows virtually all of the 45,000 miles of Pennsylvania streams plus lakes. That's almost three times the earth's circumference!

The STREAM MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

The map is also known as the LOST STREAM MAP to some anglers.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible...a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 x 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well -- until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to the landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

The experts had always told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

FREE LOCATION GUIDEBOOK INCLUDED

Included with each map. Pinpoint the best fishing in Pennsylvania with this valuable guide. Easily locate over 900 productive trout streams and 300 lakes. Bass waters, class "A" limestone streams, and trophy fish waters are easy to locate on the map.

Fourth Graders Create Ecosystems

LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster Farming Staff
HINKLETOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Fourth graders at Hinkletown Mennonite School built their own ecosystem this week.

While that might sound like a gigantic undertaking, it is really an easy project that you can do at home.

Dr. Zoann Parker, Lancaster extension agent, taught the students how the ecosystem works. She explained that the ecosystem means somewhere where things can live. Oxygen and hydrogen are needed in the system. To make this environment self-sustaining, the 24 students devised a place for guppies to live. This means that water, air, plants, guppies, and snails needed to be included in the ecosystem.

First, students filled a clear glass jar about three-fourths full with water. The water needed to sit at room temperature for several days until the chlorine in the water evaporated.

The students stuck some aquatic plants into their water jars. The plants came from That Fish Place in Lancaster, which sponsors school programs like the one held at Hinkletown.

If you are making a eco system at home, you can purchase aquatic plants or find some near a stream and replant them in your jar. You don't need dirt to do this, but simply drop the plants into the water. Generally the plants develop new root systems, but if the plants die, simply drop another plant into the water.

Plants automatically add oxygen that the fish or guppies need to breathe. But the plants also form algae. So the ecosystem needs snails, which like to clean up the dirt (algae).

Each student dropped two snails into the water in their jar. Dr. Parker explained that the saying, "slow as a snail" is misleading. "When snails want to move, they can really move," she said. "They are very active and work like little vacuum cleaners to clean up the algae that forms on the side of the jar."

Snails do not need anything or anyone else in life to multiply. If too many snails multiply in your jar, Dr. Parker said, "Smooosh them. They make a good dessert for the guppies."

Each student received two guppies to drop into the water in their jar. Dr. Parker explained that the easiest way to detect if a guppy is a boy or girl is by the color. Boys have specks of red and/or blue on them. The girl guppies have no color only silver.

"Fish do not pollute or overpopulate," Dr. Parker said. "The mommy will eat the babies if too many are born."

You can watch the guppies have babies by seeing a little round circle come out of the guppy that pops apart.

If a guppy or plant dies, you can replace it with another one.

One flake of fish food may be

Kyle Martin and a classmate decide the guppies in the jar are boys because they have red and blue specks on them.

given each day to the guppies. If more food is given, it will create ammonia buildup and the pollutant will kill the guppies.

Although water, air, plants, guppies, food, and snails are the only requirement for a healthy water eco system, Dr. Parker said that other items may be added such as sand, a stone, or marble. But be sure to rinse thoroughly before dropping it into the water; however, do not use soap as it harms the system.

The students will watch their eco system to understand how ecology works in the world. Ecology is the science of the relationships between organisms and their environments.

If you would like Dr. Parker to give a demonstration at your school, contact her at (717) 394-6851. How do water plants breathe?

They use their built in scuba gear!

Plants, just like all other living things, need oxygen to survive. But plants that grow in water have a real problem — they can't just absorb oxygen from the air around them. Even roots and shoots buried in a pond's muddy bottom need to breathe. That's where some specially-adapted water plant equipment comes in handy.

Most water plants — like water lilies and cattails — have all their breathing pores, called stoma, at the top of the plant above water. (Stoma are usually found on the lower parts of land plants, but still above ground.) Then, the plants' green, leafy parts above water pump oxygen down to the roots buried in the mud. Most plants even have tube-like air spaces that run the whole length of the plant to help deliver the oxygen.

That's not good enough for some other plants, though. These plants take a short cut by growing "air roots." These special roots rise to the surface of the water and breathe in oxygen that goes directly to underwater parts!

Scientifically yours,

Twig

Adams 4-H

Adams County 4-H members participated at the 1996 Keystone Stockman's Contest held at the Farm Show Complex recently.

The contest had 109 teams competing from five state with 369 participants. Adams County had three teams entered in the competition.

Team A members were Wayne Flickinger, Biglerville; Heidi Miller, New Oxford; Chris Seymore, York Springs; and Kelly Rockafellow, Littlestown. Team B members were Bert Martin, Orrtanna; Janel and Jason Keller, Gettysburg; and Ashley Stine, East Berlin. Team C members were Andrew Seymore, York Springs; Greg Young, Cashtown; and Kandice Arnold, Littlestown.

Adams County Team A placed fifth in the contest. Team A was sixth place team in meat judging, seventh place in management, and eighth in beef. Wayne Flickinger was second high scoring individual in the contest and won $125, desk lamp, and silver tray. Wayne was the 1st place management judging individual and 4th place meats judging individual. Chris Seymore was 35th individual in the contest.

Bob Martin, Orrtanna, Kevin Diehl, Fairfield, Sally Rockafellow, Littlestown, and 4-H Extension Agent Darlene Resh coached the team.

The Stockman's Contest consisted of 15 judging stations and included market and breeding hogs, market and breeding lambs, market and breeding beef cattle, feed identification, livestock equipment identification, livestock management quiz, retail meat, wholesale meat, and retail meats identification classes. The contest is a comprehensive evaluation of a teen's knowledge of the livestock industry.

New 4-H Photography Club Forms

A 4-H photography club is forming in Flemington, N.J. The club is for youth in 4th to 12th grade who have an interest in learning about photography, and related activities.

The first organizational meeting of the Photography Club will be Wednesday, Nov. 13 at 7 p.m. at the Hunterdon County Extension Center, Flemington.

For more information about joining 4-H, call the 4-H Department of Rutgers Cooperative Extension at (908) 788-1340 or 1341.

Donors Honored

In Cumberland County, 2,424 enrolled 4-H members are celebrating achievements they accomplished through 2,851 4-H projects and other activities.

Recently, the 4-H program recognized the many donors who support this program of informal education. Ron Glesner, Newville, president of 4-H Advisory Committee, received a grand from Rep. Al Masland, Carlisle. The grand was issued through the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture to educate suburban youth ages 8-12, in the dependence of agriculture for food and shelter. Also these youth experienced harvesting grain, preserving food, animal care, and weed and pesticide control at a three-day camp held this summer.

An annual awards banquet was held Monday, Oct. 7. Outstanding 4-H members were recognized as well as volunteer leaders.

For more information about becoming a 4-H volunteer or 4-H member, contact your Cumberland County Extension Office at (717) 240-6500, or 697-0371, ext. 6500 or 532-7286, ext. 6500.

Wayne County

4-H Achievement Program

Approximately 150 Wayne County 4-H members and their families were at the fairgrounds on Saturday, Oct. 12 for the annual 4-H Achievement Program. This event is the grand finale of the Wayne County 4-H program year.

Awards were presented to the outstanding 4-H clubs in recognition of their participation in community service activities and county, regional, and state 4-H activities. The clubs receiving these awards were as follows:

- Outstanding Ag Club: Cold Springs-Rileyville Club, led by Judy and Bob Muller, Ella Chyle, Peg Simons, Melany Jonas, and Dave Jonas.

- Outstanding Family Living Club - 4-H Munchkins, led by Mary and Joe Krisovitch and Elaine Bartle.

- Outstanding Community Club: Laurella, led by Bonnie Latour-ette.

- Outstanding Horse Club: Wayne County Highsteppers, led by Laura Mayeski and Nan Yack.

Awards were also presented to the Outstanding 4-H Boy and Girl based on their participation and contributions to their club and community. Christine Korb of the Cherry Ridge 4-H Club and Adam Gries of the Calkins 4-H Club were the recipients of these awards.

If you are interested in learning more about 4-H, call Wayne County Cooperative Extension at (717) 253-5970 ext. 239 or come to the office in the basement of the original Wayne County Courthouse, Honesdale.

Shelly Patton Reigns As State Lamb And Wool Queen

NEW MIDDLETOWN, Ohio — The newly crowned Pennsylvania Lamb and Wool Queen is no novice to the sheep industry.

Andrea Musser shows her flock of registered Suffolk sheep locally and nationally. In addition to showing breed sheep, she has carried market lamb projects as a 4-H member for 10 years.

The 18-year-old college freshman has also participated in lead line competitions, winning first place in the senior division in the Keystone International Livestock Exposition recently. Another way Andrea promotes wool for the industry is by participating in the state make-it-yourself-with-wool contest. But promoting wool for the industry is only part of Andrea's push for the lamb and wool industry. She believes that serving lamb to guests is a good grassroots start for the promotion of the industry.

Some people may be curious to know how an Ohio resident won a Pennsylvania title.

Andrea lives on the Pennsylvania and Ohio line. If she walks across the street, she is in Pennsylvania. For this reason the family has held membership the Lawrence County Wool Growers Association and in the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Association, which entitles female members to run for the Pennsylvania title.

Andrea is studying animal science at Ohio State University and plans to become a veterinarian.

The alternate queen is Shelley Patton, 17-year-old daughter of Rick and Janice Patton of Waynesburg. A senior at Waynesburg Central High School, Shelley raises both Suffolk and Tunis sheep. She represented the Greene County Sheep and Wool Growers Association.

Seventeen-year-old Jenna Svonavec, daughter of Joseph and Rosemary Svonavec of Rockwood, represented the Somerset County Sheep and Wool Growers.

Contestants for the queen position were judged on writing skills, public speaking, interview, and a consumer display. For the writing skills requirement, an article was submitted by each of the contestants to be published in the Pennsylvania Sheep Producer magazine.

Each contestant was interviewed to detect her overall knowledge of the sheep industry and each gave a short speech on how they, as representatives of the lamb and wool industry would promote the sheep industry.

BERLIN (Somerset Co.) — "Outstanding 4-Her" was a new title for each Lauren Lynch and Laura Waltermire to take along home by the conclusion of the annual Somerset County 4-H Recognition Dinner, as witnessed on October 9 by some 350 persons.

PennWest Farm Credit ACA, which presented the award had its representative, Doug Huston do the honors after the Somerset County 4-H Council and the Somerset County 4-H Development Fund Inc., had the local fire ladies serve the meal.

A member of the Steaks and Chops and Laurel Hill 4-H Clubs, the two young women also garnered a share of the $6,000 scholarship money being awarded by the 18 sponsors.

Tractor Driving Champs Maneuver Obstacles

Participants and advisors from the three county area of Cumberland, Perry, and Dauphin met in the field at Milton Hershey School in Hershey for the annual tractor driving contest. Contestants needed to excel at county competition before competing at this event.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff
HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — What teen-ager wouldn't prefer to drive a tractor on a warm autumn day rather than be stuck in the classroom?

Twelve FFA'ers representing Cumberland, Perry, and Dauphin counties earned the opportunity to compete in the FFA Safe Tractor Driving contest held at the Milton Hershey School, Hershey, last week.

The students came feeling confident from succeeding other students at the county level. But the course was nothing like straight field driving.

The obstacle course required pulling and backing a two-wheeled manure spreader and a four-wheeled wagon into stalls. Not only did they need to back it into a simulated stall but it needed to be centered with only two inches on either side to spare.

FFA advisers measured the distances and points were added for every one-half inch of space off center. Points were also added if a tractor wheel touched a stake or the twine outlining the obstacle course. Drivers needed to maintain a cautious speed that was neither too fast nor too slow. They were judged on checking the proper safety components of the tractor and the use of the brakes, clutch, and gears. Wagons also needed to be hitched and unhitched.

A written test on tractor safety was tallied in with the score.

The lowest score won. No one was expected to be able to do everything perfectly. There was a lot to remember. Contestants were not allowed to turn the steering wheel if the tractor was not moving. Some contestants remarked that while concentrating on driving, they completely forgot such things as safety checking.

The competitive event ended with top scorers Wes Smith, Ryan Gunder, both from Newport, and Don Jones from Big Spring.

Wes Smith, the only one to back the four-wheeled wagon in on his first try, said that he has been driving tractor since he was seven years old and backing four-wheeled wagons in since he was 11.

Second-place winner Ryan Gunder said that he picked up plenty of experience by working on the farms in his area.

Third-place was Don Jones, who lives on a dairy farm in Carlisle and has been driving since he was 11 years old.

Just like the top winners, most participants were from the farm. But a few with non-farming backgrounds also participated.

In addition to the three top winners, participants included Jake Clark, Jason Haycock, Ryan Haines, Brandon Mauser, Jim Weaver, Brian Peiffer, Aaron Miller, Ryan Himmelburger, and Adam Smith.

After the participant drives through the obstacle course and backs the manure spreader and a four-wheeled wagon into a simulated stall, advisers measure the distance. Points are added for every one-half inch off center.

Representing Shippensburg are Jim Weaver, Jason Haycock, and Ryan Haines. Jason and Jim work for Harb Earned Acres owned by Robert Kelfer and Ryn works on his father's dairy farm. All three hope to make a career in farming.

Participants agree that the hardest part of the obstacle course was backing a 4-wheel wagon into a simulated stall. Points are added for such things as stalling, braking, grinding gears, changing directions, touching or knocking twine or crossing lines. The lowest score wins.

tion by the cooperative extension staff included the following: for 15 years of leadership, the pearl clover to Allen Baer; for 10 years of leadership, the gold clover to James Brant, Steven Hoffman, William Merrill, Harry Mosholder, Margaret Mosholder, Evelyn Moyer, James Ray, Angie Shober, Arlene Suder and Tonya Zeigler; five years of leadership, the silver clover to JoAnn Baisley, Darlene Beachley, Melissa Fox, Warren Korns, David Livengood, Haldor "Butch" Miller, Audrey Sechler, Willis Sharp, Susan Sharp, Deborah St. Clair, and Greta Stahl.

Also recognized as advisers on the 4-H County Council were Ben Waltermire and Boanie Miller.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

This morning when I watered my 99 recently potted houseplants it made me realize that winter is fast approaching. And, we know that harvest season is over when my husband and I glean the corn fields. Due to the corn borer and a wind storm, many stalks could be not picked up by the harvester. Actually, Allen did most of the work to fill the trailer with golden ears of corn.

He has been working with his brother to build a walnut huller. They used an old hot water heater, beaters, scrap iron, etc. It took a lot of welding but he has a machine that actually works and the black walnuts are really clean when they come out of the opening at the end.

This year the youth in our church are gathering black walnuts and selling them to raise money for their projects. Many people simply consider the fallen nuts to be a nuisance rather than picking them up and making money with them.

As a youth, my parents had me pick up big bags of nuts and then the green hulls were removed by hand. In fact, that is the way that I did them for many years. The large black walnut trees on our farm have been logged twice over the years as walnut is considered to be one of the best veneer woods for furniture.

A few years ago, when Allen and I took a class at school in the shop, we used our own dried walnut wood. He made a side table with drop leaves and I made a coffee table with wings. Now it is in our daughter's home in Texas. One never knows where things will end up and it is best that we don't know.

Holiday Program To Feature Food, Gifts, Decorating

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

QUESTION — Roman Peters, Port Trevorton, would like the address and phone number of the American Shetland Pony Association.

QUESTION — Ron DeGraw, Madison, NJ, needs a manual for Allis Chalmers Model 3500 Diesel Engine. He will pay for the book, plus postage if you call him at (201) 377-5524.

QUESTION — Robert Seeley, Brewster, N.Y., would like to find an owner's manual for an Oliver Model 62T hay baler. He is also interested in finding replacement teeth for a 5-wheel, side-delivery hayrake made by Morrill Rake Co.

QUESTION — William Lucas, Warfordsburg, would like to know of a mill that has stone ground pure black buckwheat flour (not white) that will ship in five or 10 pound bags by UPS.

QUESTION — Salome Fisher would like the name and address of the Kidney Foundation, which accepts UPC symbols.

QUESTION — Mrs. David L. Glick, Holtwood, wants a used hand dough kneader. Send the price to her at 78 Old Holtwood Rd., Holtwood, PA 17532.

QUESTION — Arlene Petrizio would like to buy for a reasonable sum any craft patterns for wood cutouts that are to be painted, but no fretwork patterns. Call her at (201) 293-7992 or write to 158 River Road, Montague, NJ 07827.

QUESTION — Karen Kininane, Shartlesville, is searching for a book that has a story about two sisters who inherit a big old house in the country, move into the house, and support themselves by running a rooming house. She can't remember the title, but it had a medium blue or grayish cover, black and white illustrations on the first few pages, and was printed about 1920. Her aunt had the book, which disappeared when the house was sold. Karen will happily pay for the book plus shipping. Call her at (610) 488-7792.

QUESTION — Mae Stanill, Bel Air, Md., wants the words and music to the hymns, Dust on the Bible, and to one with the wording, "Mary, she rocked him, her little darling to sleep and left him to die like a tramp on the street." We do not have room to print the answer so send it directly to Mae at 2344 Pennington Rd., Bel Air, MD 21015.

QUESTION — Yvonne Musser, Lancaster, writes that she is planning a trip to see fall foliage and visit family cementaries in the Smithsburg, Md. area. She would like to plan the trip so that she can eat at one of the ham and oyster suppers she heard are served in the area. She would like date, location, time and information on the ham and oyster suppers.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 3

The Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 3 went on a tour of Shoemakers' Candles in Pleasantville recently. The shop owner showed how he dipped the candles and how long it takes him. He also showed his shop with very decorative items, which is located behind his house. Members continued the meeting at the home of Dora Pollock, Boyertown. She entertained members with a video of the Mississippi headwaters and delicious snacks. The next meeting is on Oct. 21 and it is a progressive dinner starting at Eleanor Bissinger.

Lancaster Society 8

Lancaster Farm Women No. 8 had an enjoyable day in October at the Strasburg Railroad including ride and luncheon and visiting the museum. The November 12 meeting will be at the Donegal Presbyterian Church in Mount Joy at noon. They will entertain members from Society No. 19.

Berks Society 6

The Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 6 meeting for September was held at the home of Marion Gehris. The program for the evening was presented by Kathy Peifer, a local resident. She talked about herbs that grow in our area and their various uses.

For the Oley Fair's 50th anniversary parade members entered a float portraying farm women 50 years ago. Members received first place in the division.

At the October county convention, held at the Berks County Agricultural Center, members will contribute items for auction. Next month the meeting will be a luncheon at Golden Oaks Country Club.

QUESTION — Teeny Spillman of Maryland remembers an article in Lancaster Farming that described how to soak pine cones to make a colorful fire. She has misplaced the information.

ANSWER — For J.R. Musser who wanted fox grapes vines, Karen Kinnane writes that she will gladly send him some if he gives her his address. She writes that fox grapes grow wild at the edge of the forest. The vines frequently climb trees and bear clusters of sweet, dark blue grapes with big seeds. She has lots of them growing up her crab apple tree. Call her at (610) 488-7792.

ANSWER — Pam Eyer of Carlisle wanted to know how to clean old bottles that have been in the ground for many years. Thanks to Sharon Ogden, Silver Spring, who writes that she was editor and publisher of the Long Island Antique Bottle Association newsletter for two years—so she has some insight into this problem. She writes that many bottles can be easily cleaned by placing "grit" used for domesticated birds and some water into the bottle and swirling it around. Many bottles need to be soaked first but the grit does work. Many bottle collectors have a machine similar to rock polishing machines but the bird grits work on the same idea. If the glass is pearlized or cream, it probably won't become completely clean.

Salome Fisher also wrote to say that a good way to clean old bottles is to put eggshells in them. Use lots of shells, either raw or cooked, with no trace of yolk or whites on them. Give the bottle a thorough shaking. To clean the necks and rims, she sometimes using gasoline but warns that extreme care must be taken when working with gasoline since it's high explosive. Keep away from pilot lights, open flames, or smoking.

ANSWER — Virginia Kalp of Stahlstown wanted to know of any organization that collects and uses Betty Crocker coupons. Salome Fisher writes that she needs those and others. She will pay for the postage to send them to her at 133-A Buckwalter Rd., Lancaster, PA 17602.

ANSWER — Irvin Gordon, Sykesville, Md., recently acquired a 200-C Steam Jenny that was manufactured by Homestead Industries of Corapolis and needed an owner's manual and a source for parts. Thanks to Donald Ryan who wrote from Jenny Products Inc., to say that the company is still in business and manufactures and sells parts for units ever made. He writes that Jenny is the oldest steam cleaner manufacturer in the world and still manufactures the best cleaning equipment made and sells parts and service even for vintage units. Parts and a service manual is available by contacting Jenny Products Inc., 850 N. Pleasant Ave., Somerset, PA 15501 or call (814) 445-3400 or fax (814) 445-2280.

ANSWER — Melva Wright of Newville wanted the words to the poem, "Little Orphan Annie." Thanks to Louise Metzger, Linden; Sarah Zook, Lititz; Lucy Hanson, Palmyra, and others who sent the words to the poem written by James Whitcomb Riley.

Little Orphan Annie

To all the little children — The happy ones; and sad ones; The sober and the silent ones; the boisterous and glad ones; The good ones—Yes, the good ones, too; and all the lovely bad ones.

*Little Orphan Annie's come to our house to stay,
An' wash the cups an' saucers up, an' brush the crumbs away.
An' shoo the chickens off the porch, an' dust the hearth, an' sweep.*

An' make the fire, an' bake the bread, an' earn her board-an'-keep;

*An' all us children, when the supper-things is done,
We set around the kitchen fire an' has the mostest fun
A-list'nin' to the witch-tales' at Annie tells about,
An' the Gobble-uns' at gits you
Ef you don't watch out!*

*Wunst they wuz a little boy whouldn't say his prayers,—
An' when he went to bed at night, away up-stairs,
His Mammy heerd him holler, an' his Daddy heerd him bawl,
An' when they turn't the kivvers down, he wuzn't there at all!
An' they seeked him the rafter-room, an' cubby-hole, an' press,
An' seeked him up the chimney-flue, an' ever'wheres, I guess;
But all they ever found wuz thist his pants an' roundabout:—
An the Gobble-uns 'll git you
Ef you don't watch out!*

Scholarship Winners

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Mercantile Bankshares Corporation of Baltimore has presented $20,000 in scholarship awards and merchandise to 4-H club members for their top achievements at the 1996 Maryland State Fair. The awards are in tribute Mercantile's former chairman, William E. McGuirk, Jr., and his wife, who with their 15 children, have been long-time supporters and participants in 4-H programs.

Scholarship money will be paid at the time the state fair recipients enter college. Each scholarship is valued at $2,000. Additional scholarships will be awarded in 1997 and 1998.

This year's nine scholarship recipients include:

- 1996 Maryland Farm Queen — 16-year-old Gina Rende of Denton (Caroline County);
- Poultry and Egg Judging Champion — 15-year-old Kelly Haines of Blacks Corner (Carroll County);
- Dairy Judging Champion — 16-year-old Kristin Myers of Eng-lars Mill (Carroll County);
- Livestock Judging Champion — 16-year-old Patrick Mullinix of Daisy (Howard County);
- Rabbit Judging Champion — 16-year-old Karen Barger of Elliott City (Howard County);
- Horse Judging Champion — 14-year-old Andrea Drzewianowski of Westminster (Carroll County);
- Horticulture Judging Champion — 14-year-old Amanda Brown of Easton (Talbot County);
- Food and Nutrition Bowl Champion — 18-year-old Jason L. Thompson of Pine Haven (Anne Arundel County);
- Consumer Education Champion — 15-year-old Amber Wilkerson of Centreville (Queen Anne's County).

In addition, Bernina sewing machines were presented to the 4-H Fashion Revue grand champion, 17-year-old Adrienne Wojchiechowski of Barnesville (Montgomery County), and the indoor clothing champion, 15-year-old Rachel Dyky from the Maple Crest section of Westminster (Carroll County).

*An one time a little girl 'ud allus laugh an' grin,
An make fun of ever' one, an' all her blood-an'-kin;
An' wunst, when they was
"company," an' old folks wuz there,
She mocked 'em an' shocked
'em, an' said she didn't care!
An' thist as she kicked her heels,
an' turn't to run an' hide,
They wuz two great big Black
Things a-standin' by her side,
An' they snatched her through the ceilin' fore she knowed what she's about!
An' the Gobble-uns 'll git you
Ef you don't watch out!*

*An' Little Orphant Annie says, when the blaze is blue,
An' the lamp-wick sputters, an' te wind goes woo-oo!
An' you hear the crickets quit,
an' the moon is gray,
An the lightning' bugs in dew is all squenched away,—
You better mind yer parunts, an'
yer teachurs fond an' dear,
An' churish them 'at loves you,
an' dry the orphan's tear,
An' he'p the pore an' needy ones 'at clusters all about,
Er the Gobble-uns 'll git you
Ef you don't watch out!*

The WOOD MASTER

Safety

Located outside eliminates wood mess and danger of fire in your home

Quality

• Total in house manufacturing by professionals who take pride and care in their craftsmanship and it shows

Round Design

• More even heat transfer. Approximately 40% less waste than square cross design, no hard to reach corners

Versatility

• Makes it compatible to existing systems (forced air floor heat, baseboard, existing boilers)

Efficiency

• The smart heat battle with the right location also makes the fire drum even more spacious and performance others only wish they had

Fuel Door

• Spacious air cooled located at comfortable filling height

Compare

• Workmanship Round Design Efficiency Standard Options over all performance and appearance and on top of all that competitive price to make the WoodMaster the most affordable outdoor furnace on the market

Interested in burning your waste and making heat. Here's a different heating system. Burn your scrap wood, sawdust and papers. Heat your shop as well as your home.

COMPLETE HOLSTEIN DISPERSAL FRI., NOVEMBER 8, 10 A.M.

100 Head of High Grade Holstein Cows & Springing Heifers

Located 1/4 mi N of Woodbury at the intersection of 36 & 866 or 5 mi S of Martinsburg at the same intersection, Bedford Co., Pa.

Herd consists of 100 head of high grade Holstein cattle, 85 cows in the dairy and the balance springing heifers. This is a herd of young cows with good feet, legs & udders. 80 head are 2, 3 & 4 year olds, 30 cows have been fresh in the past 60 days and 35 are due in the next 30 days. This herd is not on test but milk shipped to the dairy shows they are carrying well over 19,000 with a 3.7 test and low SCC. Fresh cows milking up to 100 lbs., this is a fall herd, all cows have been A.I. sired and mostly A.I. serviced. All animals have been born and raised on this farm with an exception of 3. Milked in tie stalls and housed in free stalls, never pushed, no BST or TMR used. Herd TB and Bangs tested, vaccinated and pregnancy checked. Records available day of sale.

Auctioneers note: If you like them big, young and giving lots of milk, these cows will suit the most particular dairyman. After four generations of dairy farming, the Logue's have decided to discontinue dairying to pursue another career.

Terms: Cash or good check, letter of credit for out of state checks.

A Computer Can Help You Keep Records

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Keeping farm business records by hand is a proven method that has served well for decades.

But there are good reasons for computerizing your farm business records. A computer can help you monitor and manage the farm business finances.

You can track income and costs for different parts of the farm business in much more detail than with a hand record system. Computers make it easier to analyze your past performance and make more informed production, marketing and financial decisions in the future. Computerizing farm business records can also help in tax preparation and applying for loans.

A workshop in farm business computer record keeping is being offered through the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service. In this course, you will be introduced to "Quicken," a low cost but powerful record keeping program that is relatively simple to use.

Using Quicken, you enter your income and expenses into the computer in much the same way that you use a checkbook register or your hand ledger. You classify your income and expenses according to IRS Schedule F categories that you are accustomed to. You can also classify your transactions by the different types of crop and livestock you produce so that you can do enterprise analysis. Once the information is in Quicken you can develop various financial statements to help you manage your farm business better and do your taxes.

This workshop requires about 10 hours of your time spread out over three different sessions. You will spend most of the time working on a computer using Quicken with an example farm business.

The course is geared toward, but not limited to, novices and prior experience with computers is not necessary. It is a good introduction for those who are considering buying a computer. If you have a computer but have not yet computerized your farm records, this course will help you make the transition for the 1996 and/or 1997 accounting year.

Survey results from previous participants indicate:

- Most have incorporated computer record keeping into their farm business operation.

- Many are utilizing Quicken as their record keeping system.

- Nearly all felt the workshop provided them sufficient introduction to computer record keeping to permit them to start computerizing their farm business records on their own.

- Computer record keeping has or will help improve their farm business financial situation.

The next "Quicken" workshop is scheduled for Oct. 15, 22, and 29 from 6:30 p.m.-9:30 p.m. at Carroll Community College. For those not familiar with the use of a mouse or Windows, these will be introduced during a familiarization session beginning at 5:30 p.m. on Oct. 15.

Cost for this workshop is $50 per farm/business (up to two persons per computer). This fee covers the cost for use of computer facilities and materials. Pre-registration is requested by Oct. 8. Checks should be made payable to "Carroll County EAC" and sent to Carroll County Extension Office, 700 Agriculture Center, Westminster, MD 21157.

For more information on this and other PRO-FARM Extension programs, call (410) 848-4611.

Ephrata Vo-Ag, EAYF Kick Off Mentoring Program

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — On Tuesday, Sept. 10, the Ephrata Area Young Farmers, ag instructors, vo-ag teachers at Ephrata Senior High School, and school district officials kicked off the 1996-1997 mentoring program.

The program helps students who are seeking career opportunities after high school in an agricultural environment, in farming or business.

The mentoring program at Ephrata Senior High School is in its second year. There are approximately 115 students (9th through 12th grade) involved in this program. Classroom instruction is conducted through the FFA, SAE (Supervised Agricultural Education), and career services.

There will be approximately four different stations with four or five EAYF mentors presiding. A total of 40 freshmen students will go to each station and discuss a certain topic with the mentors.

One of the mentors at the table will be chosen to speak on the topic the student has requested. Once the student is finished at a particular station, the mentor will place a sticker on an 8 by 5 card for the student, displaying that he or she was at that certain station and will move onto the next station.

Please contact Dori C. Brunken, EAYF coordinator, at (717) 859-3276, for more information.

2011 2WD ROPS

2000 SERIES TRACTORS

2045 4WD ROPS

DOUBLE THE BELARUS VALUE.

Even the smallest of jobs has to be done right. That's why our tough new 2000 Series tractors are built with the same durability, value and affordability you expect from Belarus.

Choose from two versatile models, the 2011 or the 2045, each with 540/1000 PTO and Category I three point hitch. Add the strength of the hard working 22 hp fuel efficient 2 cylinder air cooled diesel, and you have the small tractor engine that's big on performance. And that makes the 2011 and 2045 tractors ideal for everything from lawn and garden work to small acreage applications.

But that's not all. The 2000 Series is available with two wheel (2011) or four wheel (2045) rugged traction. Additional features include the ease of power assisted steering and a solid transmission with 16 forward and eight reverse speeds. Add them all up and you've got the series that sees small projects through from start to finish. So get a good day's work done — the Belarus way.

BROODING TECHNIQUES THAT AFFECT TURKEY PERFORMANCE

R. Michael Hulet
Associate Professor
Dept. of Poultry Science.

Assuring a good start during the brooding phase is the most critical factor in producing consistent and efficient growth in turkeys.

Growers who place major emphasis on the brooding period consistently have better flocks. This is accomplished by decreasing the number of challenges (biological and environmental) that affect the birds.

It was found by Dr. Bill Pierson, Virginia Tech College of Veterinary Medicine, that the cumulative effects on bird health, of increasing the number of challenges or stressors, was more than simply additive; rather, it was synergistic in nature. That is, birds challenged with E. coli, Coryza, and Hemorrhagic enteritis had increased mortality and decreased performance greater than the combined sum of the responses of birds challenged with only one of the infective agents.

It is believed that other environmental challenges react in a way similar to infective agents. Therefore, those growers who minimize stressors on birds during the brooding period are going to dramatically reduce mortality and improve feed conversion and weight gain later in the production cycle.

Environmental factors that growers can influence when producing turkeys are biosecurity, proper temperature, and adequate ventilation.

All turkeys are not created equally. Some come from young breeder flocks, some come from older flocks, some come from one strain versus another, some are held in the hatchery overnight, some are delivered "green," some are contaminated, and some are dehydrated. However, the great majority are good strong poults. Therefore, when your flock arrives, you must be prepared for the least desirable poults, hopeful you will receive a healthy flock.

Prior to the arrival of poults, a major effort in dry cleaning, followed by wet cleaning with an approved detergent, and then sanitizing with an effective disinfectant is recommended. Allow sufficient time to dry since desiccation is a major factor in decreasing microbiological growth in the environment.

Ten days to two weeks from cleaning to bird placement is a desirable practice. Longer down-times decrease the number of challenging microorganisms in the environment; therefore, cleaning the brooding house soon after it is emptied is extremely important. Making sure insects (beetles), rodents, and other litter loving pests are eliminated can prevent the reintroduction of viral or bacterial agents into the young flock. Some growers have been able to break the cycle of disease challenges by proper pest and rodent control.

Good quality litter is also important. Not only can the moisture level of the litter affect the litter's ability to absorb moisture produced by the birds and waterers, but wet litter can grow molds such as Aspergillus SP. that are harmful to young poults.

Today we are often faced with brooding poults that start on "unsteady" or weak legs. It is also important to go the "extra mile" in leveling and smoothing the litter within the brooder rings. The producer should be present to help place the birds in the rings, to make sure the birds are comfortable and that the equipment is working well, and to assure that the birds acclimate to their environment.

Turkeys still seem to be more similar to their wild cousins than to domesticated chickens in imprinting on humans as a substitute for their mothers. Therefore, the presence of humans too long at first can cause some crowding and piling in the circles before they have started on the feed and water.

Care must be taken to prevent the heating of water and feed under the brooder stove. This not only can affect nutrient quality but can also affect consumption by the poults. Birds should first be placed under the brooder stoves so that they can recognize where to return after venturing out to eat and drink. This means the temperature in the ring for turkey poults needs to be adequate to sustain 88 to 92 degrees Fahrenheit in the house with 99.5-100 F temperatures right under the brooder stove.

Since some flocks require more heat than others to be comfortable, you must be prepared to increase or decrease the room temperature to accommodate the poults. Because multiple flocks are routinely sent to turkey farms, brooding within the rings might have to be handled differently among rings within the house. Some growers establish a hospital ring near the door to take care of weakened poults that might need additional attention. At $1 per poult, the attention is well worth the time spent.

Biosecurity or the prevention of disease entering flocks and the prevention of any disease agent leaving the facility is an absolute necessity. Do not allow people, equipment, or animals to enter the facilities without taking proper sanitary precautions.

One of the major challenges facing most multiple age turkey farms is preventing the tracking of disease organisms from older to younger birds. Only diligence and vigilance in maintaining proper biosecurity techniques can accomplish this effort. Care in daily pick-up and proper disposal of mortality can also aid in reducing disease organisms in your flocks.

Along with nutrition and biosecurity, ventilation ranks equally high as a critical factor in the growth and production of turkeys. The major purpose in ventilation is to provide oxygen to the poults as well as remove carbon dioxide, ammonia, and dust.

Ventilation is also used to control moisture within the litter. During brooding, the tendency is to reduce ventilation rates so as to maintain temperature and reduce fuel usage. While temperature must be maintained, it should not be accomplished at the expense of inadequately supplying oxygen to the birds.

Minimum rates of ventilation should be maintained or birds will appear drowsy and lethargic. Having the brooder stoves too close to the floor can also prevent the exchange of air within the brooder rings. Turkeys are particularly sensitive to CO₂ and can suffocate or develop ascites at seven to 10 days of age if improper ventilation exists.

Turkeys are very sensitive to drafts. This means air should be directed toward the ceiling where it can mix with inside air and become acclimated before reaching the floor and the poult (especially during early stages of brooding). Care should be taken to make sure that brooder houses are tight and free from holes or cracks that would allow unwanted air to enter the house.

Even on warm days, direct air on young poults should be avoided. From ten days to two weeks of age, poults develop the ability to control internal temperatures and have grown some feathers to help insulate them against the negative affects of direct air flow. Therefore, air as well as temperature can be harmful to poults if too much or too little is applied in the wrong way.

In conclusion, there are many brooding techniques that can be employed to successfully grow turkeys. The most important technique is to watch the poults and to learn from their actions whether they are too hot, too cold, hungry, thirsty, in a draft, etc. Then modify the poults' environment to best meet their needs and minimize environmental and infectious stressors. When you master this technique, you will consistently raise productive and profitable flocks.

Angus Juniors Show Champions At Largest Show

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Junior Angus breeders from across the United States traveled to Kansas City, Mo., for the 28th annual National Junior Angus Show. The event, held July 16-20 at the American Royal Complex, recorded 1,039 entries, which makes it the largest single-bred beef cattle event ever held.

Dean Janssen, Bartonville, Ill., evaluated the 591 owned heifers. Brian McCulloh, Viroqua, Wis., selected champions from 218 bred-and-owned heifers, 53 bred-and-owned bulls, and 52 cow-calf pairs. Champions from the 66 steers were selected by Randy Daniel, Colbert, Ga. There were also 60 carcass steers entered.

Vision Erica 425, shown by Kyle Hain, Seward, Neb., captured the grand champion owned female title. The March 1995 daughter of TC Stockman was first named late junior champion heifer.

Matthew McClain, Rantoul, Ill., won reserve grand champion owned female with Rutledge Energy E 507. The April 1995 daughter of O S U Precision 679B first won reserve late junior champion heifer.

Ty Krebs, Gordon, Neb., led WK Belladonna into the bred-and-owned female winner's circle. His grand champion, a 1995 February daughter of Connealy Dateline, first won early junior champion heifer.

Deannas Trendy Lass 599, an April 1995 daughter of Pro Trend

9042 L W, claimed reserve grand champion bred-and-owned female honors. Deanna Hartzell, Shawano, Wis., showed the entry, which earlier won late junior champion heifer.

Leitnaker Fortune Stone 112 won grand champion bred-and-owned bull honors for Phil Leitnaker, Pleasantville, Ohio. The January 1995 son of Century Touchstone 131 was first named junior champion bull.

Wesley Womack, Pembroke, Ky., exhibited the reserve grand champion bred-and-owned bull. Womacks Resource 1475 is an October 1995 son of Rito 3W3 of 0J2 Rito 9FB3. He was first named bull calf champion. CAFE Belle 259 won grand champion cow-calf pair honors for Kori Conley, Cameron, Mo. The January 1994 daughter of N Bar Emulation EXT had a February 1996 bull calf sire by Ambush Bando 01 at her side.

Christy Bell, Munroe, Ga., exhibited the reserve cow-calf pair. Harmony Hill Jestress 435 is a March 1994 daughter of BT Abound 391A. A February 1996 heifer calf sired by Transformer 100 E A R was by her side.

Brett Fogle, New Windsor, Md., captured grand champion steer honors with Misty Mountain Gent 009. A March 1995 son of Stone Gate Eurgent is the winning entry.

Reggie 21E won reserve grand champion steer honors for Chad Curoe, Bernard, Iowa. The winning entry is an April 1995 son of G C C Broker.

Jared Spader, Rosendale, Mo., had the grand champion carcass steer. His entry had a live weight of 1,285 pounds, and a carcass weight of 747 pounds. The carcass had a fat thickness of .32 inches and a ribeye area of 12.1 square inches. The steer graded Choice with a yield grade of 2.67.

The reserve grand champion carcass steer was entered by Cody Quam, Lodi, Wis. It had a live weight of 1,115 pounds, and a carcass weight of 711 pounds. The carcass had a fat thickness of .32 inches, a ribeye area of 12 square inches, and graded Choice with a yield grade of 2.46.

Brett Fogle, New Windsor, Md., exhibited the grand champion steer at the 1996 National Junior Angus Show in Kansas City, Mo. Misty Mountain Gent 009, a March 1995 son of Stone Gate Eurgent was the winning entry. A record-breaking 1,039 head were shown at the event, making it the largest single-bred beef cattle show ever held.

Leitnaker Fortune Stone 112 won grand champion bred-and-owned bull awards for Phil Leitnaker, Pleasantville, Ohio, at the 1995 National Junior Angus Show in Kansas City, Mo. The January 1995 son of Century Touchstone 131 was first named junior champion bull. Exhibitors from 32 states exhibited 1,039 entries, making it the largest single-bred beef cattle show ever held.

Chain Saw Safety Meeting Nov. 7

NEWARK, Del. — Last year, there was an average of 100 emergency room cases associated with chain saw injuries each day in the United States. The chain saw will never be made accident-proof, said Ron Jester, University of Delaware Cooperative Extension safety specialist.

"These power tools can be highly dangerous in the hands of an untrained operator," said Jester. "Because chain saws are a high-speed cutting tool, special precautions must be observed to reduce the risk of personal injury. Chain saw accidents can be prevented."

Cooperative extension is sponsoring a chain saw safety seminar with the Delaware Department of Agriculture, Thursday, Nov. 7, from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Department of Agriculture building on U.S. Route 13 south of Dover.

Intended for both professional and weekend lumberjacks, the seminar will feature sessions on chain saw technology and information on the chain saw's limitations, capabilities, and operation. A wood-cutting demonstration, with an emphasis on measuring noise exposure, will be included.

A registration fee of $8 will cover lunch and an educational packet. Registration is required by Nov. 5. For more information or to register, contact Jester at (302) 856-7303 in Georgetown or the Delaware Department of Agriculture forestry office at (800) 282-8685.

Blue Valley Farm Show Hosts Eastern Pa. Livestock Show, Sale

BANGOR (Northampton Co.) — The 1996 Eastern Pennsylvania 4-H Livestock Show and Sale was held recently at the Blue Valley Farm Show.

In the steer category, Jamie L. Hower of Bethlehem won grand champion with her 1,215-pound steer. Jamie's steer was purchased by H. & H. Holding Company of Bethlehem for $1,525 or $1.26 per pound. The reserve champion steer, weighing in at 1,175 pounds, was also owned by Jamie L. Hower. A total of five steers were sold at an average price, without the grand champion, of $.90 per pound.

In the sheep category, Jessie P. Poliskiewicz of Bangor won grand champion with his 114-pound Suffolk market lamb. His lamb was purchased by Keystone Farm Credit of Tatamy for $140 or $1.23 per pound. Heather A. Ford of Northampton won reserve champion market lamb with her 110-pound Dorset market lamb. Heather also won champion bred and owned as well as champion pair of market lambs honors with her Dorset market lambs. A total of 12 market lambs were sold at an average price, without the grand champion, of $1.51 per pound.

In the swine category, Sara Miller of Lehigh won grand champion with her 248-pound market hog. Her market hog was purchased by Hatfield Quality Meats, Inc. of Hatfield for $510 or $2.06 per pound. Sara also won reserve champion with her 230-pound market hog. A total of 12 market hogs were sold at an average price, without the grand champion, of $.83 per pound.

In the goat category, Diana Holder of Slatinton won top honors with her grand champion 70-pound market goat. Diana also was awarded champion bred and owned market goat. Her goat was purchased by Herfurth Brothers of Gilbert for $130. Reserve champion market goat honors went to Brant Kloiber of Bath with his 71-pound market goat. There were four market goats sold at an average price of $120 each.

Emus Die From Encephalitis

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Eastern equine encephalitis (EEE), a viral disease spread by mosquito bites, caused the recent deaths of five emus in Wicomico County on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

"We regret the loss of the birds. We are concerned about this disease, which is usually fatal, and the potential for it to occur in people and livestock. The Maryland Department of Agriculture's Animal Health Program and Mosquito Control Program will work together to minimize the possibility of additional cases of encephalitis or deaths," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley.

"Emus are a large flightless bird, similar to an ostrich, of Australian origin. They have no natural resistance to eastern encephalitis as do most native bird species and are very susceptible to the disease," said Dr. Roger Olson, Maryland's state veterinarian.

Emus are raised for their high quality meat and other commercial uses. Production of emus is a relatively new venture with a developing market in the United States. Emus can be protected against EEE disease by vaccination. Olson urges all emu owners to consult with their veterinarians.

Occurrence of the EEE virus in mosquitoes was rare this past summer in Maryland, but common in New York and New England states.

"This has been an unusual year for encephalitis activity. It is likely that song birds on their southward migration brought the EEE virus to the mid-Atlantic states, providing the opportunity for Maryland mosquitoes to acquire the virus by feeding on the infective birds," said Cyrus Lesser, Chief of the Mosquito Control Program.

Song birds apparently are unaffected by EEE virus, and can transport it hundreds of miles or more during migration. The emu fatalities in Maryland occurred during the same time as a human fatality from EEE in North Carolina and horse deaths from EEE in New Jersey and Delaware.

"At this time, the mosquito population is moderate, but the potential for mosquitoes to be infected with EEE virus is the greatest it has been all year. Mosquito control spraying by trucks and aircraft will continue later this year than normal to reduce the adult mosquito population and to minimize the possibility of new cases of encephalitis," said Lesser.

Lesser advises that people avoid mosquito infested areas and restrict outdoor activities at dusk when mosquitoes are most active. The recent cool temperatures have not been low enough to kill mosquitoes, which require 3 to 4 hours of temperatures below 30°F for death to occur.

For additional information, contact Dr. Roger Olson (410) 841-5810 or Cyrus Lesser (410) 543-6626.

Eugene and Dan Eckroth continue a history of serving Case IH customers in three locations that started in 1947 when their grandfather started the business at New Ringgold. The brothers grew the business since they took over in 1983 to the point where they now have two additional locations, a store in Bloomsburg, and a brand new facility situated on five acres at Orefield.

"We feel strongly that we want to treat people like we want to be treated," Dan said. "We take time to listen to their needs and help them where we can. No high pressure, just the help they want."

The dealerships ship parts and do on-farm service work where needed in their areas. They are a full-line dealer that includes: combines, tractors, skid loaders, and tillage and planting equipment. They believe their new 17,500 square foot building to house service, parts, sales and warehouse departments and a show room, proves commitment to the future of the farm community.

Past customers are appreciated and the Eckroth brothers look forward to serving many old and new customers in the future.

A new facility at Orefield located along Kernville Road gives the Eckroth dealerships 17,500 square feet of space to expand business and serve their customers better.

Former U.S. Ag Secretary Visits KILE

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Keystone International Livestock Exposition attracts livestock breeders and enthusiasts from at least 32 different states and Canada to the Pennsylvania State Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, but this year Clayton Yeutter, former U.S. secretary of agriculture made his first visit.

Yeutter, now an ambassador and an attorney with the Washington D.C. firm of Hogan and Hartson L.L.P., was in Harrisburg winding up a political trip through Pennsylvania in support of Republican presidential candidate Bob Dole and vice presidential candidate Jack Kemp.

According to Yeutter, he was serving as a speaker for Dole, a role he said that commits him to one or two public appearance per week until the elections.

He served as United States secretary of agriculture during the President Bush administration, having previously served as a trade representative for the United States from 1985 to 1988 under President Reagan. He was involved in helping to direct formation of the 1988 Trade Bill, and helped start the Uruguay Round of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

In 1991 he served as national chairman of the Republican Party, returning to the U.S. administration in 1992 as counselor to the president.

During the 1970s he served in the agriculture departments of the Nixon and Ford administrations, involved in marketing, commodity programs, and trade issues.

His visit to the Farm Show Complex and KILE was made prior to flying to Florida to continue a national tour to help boost support of the Republican Party's presidential campaign. Pennsylvanians apparently have not demonstrated strong support for Dole in polls.

Yeutter was also in the state to help announce others in the state working to support Dole's presidential bid.

At a press conference earlier in the day in State College and Mifflinburg, Yeutter was joined by Keith Eckel, a tomato farmer and former long-time president of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau who retired from that post, but remains a paid member of the board directing a PFB-related insurance program.

Eckel is a member of the national steering committee for Rural Americans for Dole/Kemp '96. Eckel joined Yeutter at KILE.

Others at the press conference included Dr. Dick Grubb, state chairman of the rural Republican effort, and Dr. Gene Love, Tom Kerr Sr., Tom Kerr Jr., Paul Kerr, and Dr. James Dunn, as well as state Sen. Roger Madigan, majority chairman of the Senate Agricultural and Rural Affairs Committee.

A former Nebraska beef farmer, and former president and chief executive officer of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, Yeutter visited with some of the members of the Pennsylvania Livestock Association following an association meeting held immediately after opening ceremonies.

After submitting to a brief interview, he visited with some of the exhibitors and and toured the complex.

Farm Show Director Dennis Grumbine briefed Yeutter on the state Farm Show Complex, its importance to the state, the financial benefits to the immediate economy and the number and types of shows held at the facility.

Yeutter, who now resides near Washington, said that he used to raise and show Angus cattle and hogs as a 4-Her growing up in Nebraska, Dole's home state (though he lives mostly near Washington D.C.), and also judged cattle and was on several college judging teams.

He said that his involvement in the Dole campaign is not an indication of intent to seek a position in federal government, but as a service to the party and Dole.

Yeutter said that because of the 1996 Farm Bill, agriculture would probably be faced with the same programs and policies under a Dole administration, as it would under a continued administration under President Clinton.

However, he said that Dole's promise of a 15-percent tax cut would benefit farmers, and that to maintain the policy direction that seeks to provide United States agriculture a free and fair world market place, the administration must return to Republican control.

Yeutter said he was surprised by the lack of "leadership" by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Clinton administration in forming the current Farm Bill. He criticized allowing the different factions to battle it out, though he said the end result is good.

Further, Yeutter said the direction of the nation's agriculture policy was started under the previous Republican administration, and that was resulted was out of a continuance of that. He said that he fears that continuing under Democratic leadership may result in a disastrous change in direction during the next four years.

"The Clinton administration is taking credit for the recovery, but the foundation was laid during the Bush administration," Yeutter said.

The basic messages that Yeutter said he was trying to get across to the public is that with a Republican administration and a Republican Congress, resources would be freed to help the economy grow by 3- to 4-percent, instead of the current 2.5 percent, more jobs would be created, and that spending discipline would be instituted.

By resources to be freed, he said he wasn't talking specifically about such things as aiding further commercial enterprise upon the nation's mineral or natural resources, but that the targeted business sector for growth would be that with is high technology and capital intensive.

He said that this is what is needed because the cost of labor in the United States is so high compared to the world market, and the United States has the edge with technology and high-capital business.

In an echo of the Dole campaign message, Yeutter said another failing of the current administration is in international affairs.

He said that while Clinton brought domestic issues more attention, he has essentially failed to maintain or improve world relations and has allowed the United States to drop to dangerous respect levels among the nations of the world, especially with China.

He said we now have too much

alliance with Russian President Boris Yelstin in our relationship with the Russian people.

He also said that trade issues with Japan have been getting too much attention.

Yeutter blamed the huge growth in the national deficit under the Reagan and Bush administrations on the Democratic Congress and said that spending didn't get changed until the Congress was taken over by the Republicans.

All in all, however, those at KILE seemed more impressed with the man than the message and Yeutter was well received by exhibitors.

Farm Bureau Announces Finalists

ALBANY, N.Y. — Finalists for the New York Farm Bureau's 1996 Young Farmers and Rancher Achievement Award have been selected from Montgomery, Monroe, and Franklin counties. The winner will be announced during Farm Bureau's annual meeting in Rochester, Dec. 2-5.

The announcement was made by Farm Bureau Director of Organization Fred Perrin.

"This year's finalists for the Young Farmer and Rancher Achievement Award are Michael and Linda Cole of Canajoharie, Montgomery County; and James and Alayne Doan of Hamlin, Monroe County; and Randy and Elizabeth Ooms of Constable in Franklin County," Perrin said.

Perrin said he was pleased to make the announcement because all three finalists operate "top notch" farming operations, and all "are leaders in their communities, the Farm Bureau and the agricultural industry." Making the final selection, Perrin added, may prove to be a "difficult undertaking" for the judges.

Michael and Linda Cole have operated their 55-cow dairy farm in the Montgomery County community of Canajoharie for the last five years, but have been engaged in farming for 10 years. Their operation boasts a mixed herd of registered Jerseys and grade Holsteins. Michael has earned an associate's degree in animal husbandry from the University of Connecticut and is president of the Montgomery County Farm Bureau. Linda has a bachelor's degree in agricultural economics from the University of Connecticut and works for the Montgomery County Association for Retarded Children.

James and Alayne Doan own and operate 1,200 hives of honey bees from their home in Hamlin, Monroe County. The couple also work with James' parents, assisting them with their honey packing plant. Together, they produced a quarter million pounds of honey in 1995. James has earned an associate's degree in Floriculture from Cornell University. Among other professional affiliations, he has been a Monroe County Young Farmer and Rancher committee chairman from 1984-1986; a member of the Monroe County Farm Bureau board of directors from 1984-1986; a representative on Farm Bureau's Commodity board on honey bees from 1993-1996; a board member of the National Honey Bee Association in 1994; and is president of the Empire State Honey Producers Association. James has also been active in the community as a member of the Kendall Central School board of education, the Hamlin Republican Committee, and the Master Plan Committee for the town of Hamlin.

Randy and Elizabeth Ooms operate a family dairy farm in Constable, Franklin County. They milk an average of 60 Holsteins, registered and grade, and crop 160 acres of their 265-acre operation. They own 135 head. The Ooms are relatively new in operating their own farm, having started their family farm just four years ago. Randy is a member of Agri-Mark, is a sire committeeman and delegate to the Eastern AIC, is director of the Franklin County Holstein Club, and is on the advisory committee for the county DHI. Elizabeth is a member of Dairy-lea's Advisory Committee and is treasurer of the Franklin County Dairy Promotion Committee.

All three state finalists received an expense-paid trip to the state annual meeting in Rochester, where the final judging will take place. The state winner will receive a 486 computer system and a $500 cash award from Dodge Truck. The state winner then will receive an expense paid trip to the American Farm Bureau Annual Meeting in Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 4-9. The winner of the national Young Farmer and Rancher Achievement Award will win a new Dodge Ram pickup truck.

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — Heavy duty trucks pulling long livestock trailers maneuvered bumper-to-bumper around the barns at the county fairgrounds in an attempt to load or unload their animals for the recent annual Somerset County Club Calf Show and Sale.

Nevertheless, as they rolled in from five or six other states, consignors and buyers were jacketed for the frosty shock they knew would follow at night when the fuzzy warmth was snatched away by a setting sun.

Sponsored by the Somerset County Beef Producers and the Pennsylvania Cattleman's Association, the sale of 103 animals totaled $76,360, according to chairman Dave Brant of Rockwood.

Brant said the 85 steers brought $66,445 for an average of $781, while the total for heifers was $9,915, an average of $550.83.

The grand champion steer of E.L. Wolfe and Sons from Jane Lew, W.Va. was bought by Barbara Hake, Etters, for $1,350.

Seneca Way Farms from Kingwood, West Virginia, saw their reserve grand champion steer sold by auctioneer John Spiker, from Jane Lew, sell to Kenneth Bauer, Jr., Walkersville, for $1,150.

Show judge Jim Sutherly of Casstown, Ohio, selected two steers of H. Wayne Miller of Fairhope, as the county-bred grand champion, which Louis Surace of Greensburg, Westmoreland County, bought for $1,350; and the reserve grand champion that Tim Bishop of Creekside paid for with $900.

Miller's grand champion heifer, however, was well-liked by the owners — Don, Annette and son, Jason Knotts — of the Hidden

New Service Tells If Adviser Is Bull Or Bear

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Until now, farmers had no way of knowing if they were riding with bulls or bears when it came to market advice from specialists.

Investors in the stocks and bonds markets have easy access to "Consensus Outlook Indicators," which measure the degree of bullishness of market advisory services.

"No one had calculated similar indicators for agriculture," said Scott Irwin, Ohio State University agricultural economist. That has changed. Irwin and fellow agricultural economist Darrel Good at the University of Illinois created AGMAS, (Agricultural Market Advisory Services), which provides two ways for farmers to compare how their market advisers stack up against others.

That is especially significant today, given the policy shift away from price supports and deficiency payments, Good said. "Farmers are increasingly going to look to the private sector for advice and information. So, our question is,

'what are these people all about?' Let's evaluate their effectiveness and see what else we can glean."

One part of AGMAS, called Consensus View Indicators, averages advice from 20 services.

"A farmer may use one or two different services. This allows them a quick and simple way to check how their service compares to the market as a whole," Irwin said.

Each Wednesday, researchers study the analysis and commentary for corn, soybeans, wheat, cotton, live hogs and live cattle as they appear on the DTN (Data Transmission Network) and FarmDayta networks.

They rank each service on a scale of 1 to 5 according to bullishness, with 1 being totally bearish (prices will fall) and 5 being totally bullish (prices will rise).

These ratings are converted to a scale of 0 to 100, and are averaged for each commodity.

On Sept. 11, for example, market advisers on average were rather bearish on corn, with a ranking of 30, and rather bullish on soybeans, with a ranking of 65. A farmer can use this information to see how his service's advice compares with what most advisers were saying that week.

The ratings are released each Thursday, and can be found on the Internet (<http://www.aces.uiuc.edu/~agmas>). Later this fall, FarmDayta and DTN will offer AGMAS as a premium service.

The website includes historical data on each commodity's outlook indicator.

By November, corn and soybean farmers will also get to see how their service compares directly with others, and how much money they would have earned and lost had they followed the advice of each service.

Since the spring of 1994, researchers have recorded every day, twice a day, the marketing recommendations for the '95 crop.

Whitestone Farm, Aldie, Va., and Southern Angus Farms Inc., Dothan, Ala., own the November 1994 daughter of Whitestone Tonto. THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21st CENTURY?"

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

Protect your valuable feeds from the elements... increase the efficiency of your feeds, your animals, and your labor.

A Knife Cuts Twine... An Oswalt® Hay Saw Cuts Hay!

(NEW HAY SAW PROCESSOR MAKES QUICK WORK OF LONG STEMMED HAY)

Some mixer companies will tell you they have "knives" installed on the augers of their mixers that will cut through long stemmed hay. But that's like comparing a pocket knife to a chain saw. Oswalt's newest feed mixer cuts through long stemmed hay, turning it into a blended, uniform and highly digestible ration... and it does it in record time!

Hay Saw sections are installed in a continuous ribbon on the leading edge flighting of the bottom augers. As hay is pulled into the lower augers, an even sawing action cuts effortlessly through the long stemmed hay. And because it saws as the auger turns, it actually processes hay with a lot less torque, saving time and fuel!

Ask your Oswalt Dealer for a demo. Then you'll see what we mean when we say Nothing Performs Like an Oswalt!

IN ALUMINUM BODIES EBY BUILDS IT

M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24', landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- LANDSCAPE BODIES - Lengths to 12'. We'll build to your specs!

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer customer options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business - building bodies to haul it is ours.

MaxiPower Upgrades, Expands Operations

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — MaxiPower, a leading manufacturer of power generation equipment, has transferred its manufacturing headquarters to a custom-designed facility here increasing the company's workforce by 25 percent and its manufacturing capabilities by 100 percent.

MaxiPower's new facility occupies 43,000 square feet situated on 10 acres of property just six miles from the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

According to Thomas T. Koch, president, updated equipment

"will allow MaxiPower to uphold its commitment to manufacturing technically superior, cost-efficient gensets." Advanced load testing equipment, electrostatic paint booths, and enhanced welding processes are included.

Ma iPower, founded in 1973, has manufactured engine gensets since its inception. For almost 25 years, the agricultural market has relied upon MaxiPower tractor drive generators and standby systems — gensets that are protected by one of the finest warranties in the industry.

Deere Announces Tracked Versions Of Row-Crop Tractors

The John Deere 8000T Series tractors include the 160-HP 8100T, 180-HP 8200T, 200-HP 8300T, and the 225-HP 8400T.

MOLINE, Ill. — John Deere has announced that it will offer four rubber-tracked tractor models based on its 8000 Series row-crop tractors to address the needs of farmers who face certain conditions where tracks can provide flotation and traction advantages.

The four models included in the 8000T Series are the 160-HP 8100T, 180-HP 8200T, 200-HP 8300T, and the 225-HP 8400T.

Deere offers farmers a choice of either tires or tracks for the 160- to 225-HP row-crop tractor market.

The new models are very similar to their 8000 Series counterparts. However, the tracked tractors feature a completely new power train from the rear of the transmission through the final drives. This prohibits interchanging tires and tracks on these tractors, so farmers will need to carefully consider with configuration is better for their conditions.

"Both tires and tracks have their respective advantages and limitations in a given set of conditions," said Terry Mosier, marketing manager at John Deere's tractor manufacturing plant in Waterloo, Iowa. "Although we anticipate tires will continue to be the dominant part of the tractor market, tracked tractors will appeal to a limited segment of the market."

The friction-drive John Deere track system features a 60.6-inch rear drive wheel, 27.6-inch front idler, and three mid-rollers on each side. The design puts 89 inches of track per side on the ground.

A hydraulic cylinder mounted on each track frame provides track tension. The cylinder can be charged by using one of the tractor's SVCs. An indicator inside the cab alerts the operator if track tension should ever drop below normal.

The track frames attach to a large, one-piece, welded cross-member that extends through the middle of the tractor. Provisions on the cross-member and final-drive hubs permit changing tread settings without additional spacers or hardware. Standard tread spacings include 60, 64, 66, 68, 72, 80, and 88 inches. Track alignment can be adjusted with two cap-screws located on each track frame.

Like the 8000 Series, all 8000T Series Tractors use 8.1-liter engines with electronically controlled governors for fuel-efficient, high-torque performance and up to 10 percent additional power (power bulge) within a wide rpm range. An exclusive John Deere Field Cruise™ feature provides the convenience of maintaining a consistent field speed in light-load operations such as cultivating or spraying.

Case Sees Ag Future

DENVER, Colo. — In meetings held in Denver this month, Case Corporation unveiled to more than 3,000 U.S. and Canadian Case IH customers, dealers, and company personnel a view of what the company foresees will be the future of farming.

Specifically, Case introduced more than 20 new products which it indicates will take farmers into the 21st century.

"But it was very important to us to do more than simply showcase our new products," said Jim Irwin, Case vice president, North America can agricultural sales.

"To truly partner with farmers and ranchers for the future, we need to offer them fully integrated crop and livestock systems that will maximize their success. More than that, we need to do everything we can to help keep them ahead of the curve in terms of farming based on informed inputs."

Irwin pointed out that there are customers out there right now accepting delivery on combines equipped with Case IH Advanced Farming Systems equipment, so farmers can use global positioning satellite technology to monitor and map their harvests. "This isn't Case IH pushing high-tech equipment; it's our customers acknowledging, through their buying decisions, that they're competing in an age when information is essential to farming operations," he said.

Likewise, the decision to describe product offerings in terms of crop and livestock production systems is also customer driven. "We're referring to integrated product offerings," Irwin said.

New Loaders For Tractors

ATLANTA, Ga. — Massey Ferguson has introduced two new front end loaders, models 948 and 956, designed for maximum operating efficiency with new MF 6100 and MF 8100 series tractors from 86 to 180 PTO horsepower.

These new loaders are job-matched to the tractors for overall performance. Loader hydraulic cylinders are sized to the tractor's hydraulic system for exceptional loader lift capacity, breakout force, and bucket cycle times.

A new Quick-Attach loader mounting system saves time when installing or removing the loader and increases the versatility of the tractor. Self-storing parking stands support the loader when removed from the tractor and also save time by simplifying loader installation or removal.

The MF 948 loader is designed for MF 6100 series tractors from 86 to 110 PTO horsepower, and the MF 8120 at 130 PTO horsepower. This loader features a maximum lift height up to 150 inches and lift capacity to full height up to 4,200 pounds, depending on tractor model and tire size.

The MF 956 loader is designed for MF 8100 series tractors from 145 to 180 PTO horsepower. This loader features a maximum lift height up to 169 inches and lift capacity to full height up to 5,000 pounds, depending on tractor model and tire size.

Kuhn Selects Regional Sales Manager

VERNON, N.Y. — Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc. has announced the appointment of a senior management executive.

Richard Kurtz has been named marketing manager and will oversee market development for Kuhn products in the northern states. He will be responsible for the management of the company's product and service support departments. Kurtz was formally Kuhn product and service manager.

Parlor Made Of Hot-Dipped Galvanized Steel

The Cascade parallel parlor is manufactured from corrosion-resistant hot-dipped galvanized steel for heavy-duty operations.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Why is the Cascade parallel parlor considered a breakthrough in the dairy industry? Because now you can get all the features similar to what you find when purchasing a top-of-the-line parlor for a fraction of the cost.

The Cascade parallel parlor is manufactured from corrosion-resistant hot-dipped galvanized steel for heavy-duty operations. All bends and edges are rounded for maximum safety and welded on-site for extra strength and rigidity. Cascade parallel parlors have been developed to provide durable and reliable stalls without the expense of stainless steel construction.

Some of the benefits the Cascade parallel parlor offers are All-Exit™/All Index (optional Gang Exit/Gang Index™), wide elevated 6 1/2-inch gutters, no steel on steel wear points, air powered with 4-inch cylinder to operate indexing, and hot-dipped galvanized construction.

Gro-Mor Introduces Territorial Manager

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — Gro-Mor Plant Food Company, a manufacturer of liquid fertilizers and a provider of agricultural services headquartered here has introduced Paul Rapp as its new territorial manager for Northumberland, Montour, Snyder, and Union counties.

Rapp will be direct contact for customers of liquid starter and foliar fertilizers. He will also be providing nutrient management planning services, including manure and soil testing, to help area farmers comply with the new state and federal nutrient management plan laws and regulations.

Gro-Mor is sole distributor of Amisorb, a product which extends the feeder root system of plants. Rapp's knowledge of systems, farm mapping, accounting, and record keeping provides the background he needs for sales and support of Farm Works software for PCs with Windows.

New Low-Profile Tractors Available

This Model 8010 New Holland low-profile tractor has 6-cylinder Genesis™ 96 PTO HP diesel. Model 7010 low-profile unit has 4-cylinder, 86 PTO HP engine. Both have 29-gallon fuel tanks, 540/100 RPM independent PTO, and 17.4 GPM hydraulics.

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — New Holland Models 7010 and 8010 low-profile tractors are engineered for groves, orchards, and other restricted overhead work.

Both feature a low-clearance heavy-duty front axle, a choice of 2WD or 4WD, folding ROPS, and fold-away flashers.

There also is a choice of 8x2 or 16x4 transmissions, full coverage or crown fenders, telescoping hitch stabilizers, flex-link lift arms for easy hookup, and lowered steering wheel location. The hand throttle is protected from overhanging limb interference by the steering wheel.

The Model 7010 low-profile tractor is powered by a 4-cylinder 304 CUI displacement 86 PTO HP diesel. The Model 8010 low-profile power unit has a 6-cylinder Genesis™ 96 PTO HP 456 CUI displacement engine. Both have 29-gallon fuel tanks, 540/1000 RPM independent PTO, and 17.4 GPM hydraulics. Two hydraulic remotes are standard for both models.

These tractors have proven engines and drivelines to provide the reliability commercial operators need in critical harvest time at an economical cost, said New Holland Product Manager Jerry Dick-er.

Junior Angus Preview Winners Announced

Monica Feeser, Taneytown, captured both grand champion owned and bred-and-owned female honors at the 1996 Maryland Junior Angus Preview Show in West Friendship. Carousel Rose 507 is a February 1995 daughter of Westwind Rito 8503 D J H 019.

Thornbrook Traveler A 1185, shown by Jennifer Butler, Emmitsburg, captured grand champion bred-and-owned bull honors at the 1996 Maryland Junior Angus Preview Show in West Friendship. He is a January 1995 son of Q A S Traveler 23-4.

4-H, FFA Livestock Sale Successful

ERIE (Erie Co.) — Hoss's Steak and Sea House purchased the grand champion market steer at the recent 4-H and FFA Livestock Sale, held in conjunction with the Waterford Fair.

Buyers for the restaurant paid $2 per pound for the 1,162-pound champion Maine-Anjou crossbred steer raised and marketed by Lisa James.

James, a Waterford-area resident, is a member of the True Grit 4-H Club.

The grand champion market hog was sold to Mills Associates of Pittsburgh by Patrick Goodrich for $3.90. Goodrich is a member of the Homesteaders 4-H Club and is from Summit Township. His Hampshire crossbred weighed 252 pounds.

C. Sherman Allen, Auctioneer, paid $6 per pound for the grand champion market lamb. This Suffolk crossbred lamb, weighing 102 pounds, was exhibited and sold by 4-H'er Bryan North of Waterford. North is a member of the Waterford Livestock Wranglers 4-H Club. Allen donated the champion lamb to the Shriner's Hospital for Children in Erie. Processing of the lamb was donated by Battles Meat Processing, Saegertown. Battles Meats is owned and operated by Jack Retchloff. Allen also purchased a market hog auctioned off later at the sale by Joey Stevens of WJET TV 24. He donated this hog, sold by 4-H'er Jesse Fiske of Waterford, to Shriner's Hospital, as well, with processing donated once again by Battles Meats.

The reserve grand champion market steer was purchased by Michael and Nancy Cochran, Waterford, for $1.35 per pound. The steer, exhibited by Sarah Diehl, Corry, weighed 1,204 pounds. Diehl is a member of the True Grit 4-H Club. The reserve grand champion market hog was sold by Tim Kosiorek, Wattsburg, to Quality Farm and Fleet of Corry for $3.30 per pound. Kosiorek is a member of the True Grit 4-H Club. Kosiorek donated 15 percent of his proceeds of the sale of his hog to the Shriner's Hospital for Children. The reserve champion market lamb was purchased by Swank's Steel City Shows of Pittsburgh for $4.20 per pound. The Hampshire lamb, weighing 137 pounds, was sold by Melissa Gervase, Summit Township. Gervase is a member of the Homesteaders 4-H Club.

According to Carolyn L. Belczyk, extension agent - 4-H/Youth with the Erie County Cooperative Extension, 23 market lambs, 45 market hogs, and 27 market steers were sold through the livestock sale in 1996. The sale provides 4-H and FFA members with a market outlet for their project animals. Sale averages this year, excluding prices paid for grand and reserve champions, the charity hog, and resale animals, ranged from $1.44 per pound for market lambs to $1.15 per pound for market hogs and $.91 per pound for market steers. Many members will use any profits from the sale of this year's project animals to finance next year's project work.

Hoss's Steak and Sea House purchased the grand champion market steer from Waterford-area 4-H member Lisa James at the recent Erie County 4-H and FFA Livestock Sale. James, far right, is a member of the True Grit 4-H Club.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Maryland junior Angus exhibitors met recently in New Friendship for the 1996 Maryland Junior Angus Preview Show. Judge Chris Mullinix, Woodbine, Md., evaluated the 77 entries.

Carousel Rose 507 won dual honors for Monica Feeser, Taneytown. The February 1995 daughter of Westwind Rito 8503 D J H 019 was named grand champion female in both the owned and bred-and-owned shows.

Diana Covell, Frederick, captured reserve grand champion owned female honors with Champion Hill Star Skymr 278. She is a July 1995 daughter of Rito 9FB3 of 5H11 Fullback.

W F Pattys Pearl, a September 1995 daughter of G A R Sleep Easy 1009, walked away with reserve grand champion bred-and-owned female honors. Melissa Harrison, Woodbine, owns the entry.

Thornbrook Traveler A 1185 claimed grand champion bred-and-owned bull honors for Jennifer Butler, Emmitsburg. He's a January 1995 son of Q A S Traveler 23-4.

Covells Precise Touch, a November 1995 son of G A R Precision 1680, captured reserve grand champion bred-and-owned bull for Jeff Covell, Frederick.

Youth Agricultural Safety Program Assists Internet Users

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — Partners for a Safer Community™, in conjunction with project collaborator Farm Safety 4 Just Kids, will deliver a youth agricultural safety education workshop at the 1996 National Youth Safety Congress in Orlando, Fla. on Sunday, Oct. 27.

The workshop will include project description presentations and a session on youth safety issue identification and community problem-solving.

The 1996 National Youth Safety Congress is an annual meeting of more than 300 youth and organization leaders sponsored by the National Safety Council. The congress includes representation from such groups as the National FFA Organization, 4-H, Boy and Girl Scouts and SADD.

As a special project of the National FFA Foundation, Inc., Partners for a Safer Community is a growing collaborative effort to compile and distribute agricultural youth health and safety education resources to teachers and community leaders across the United States.

For information about the 1996 National Youth Safety Congress activities, call (800) 621-7615, ext. 2024. To learn more about Partners for a Safer Community, write Partners for a Safer Community, 4302 Carlisle Blvd., NE, Albuquerque, NM 87107 or send email to jasess@swcp.com.

Convention To Celebrate 'Leaders With Vision'

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — "Leaders with a Vision" is the theme for the 69th National FFA Convention, symbolizing the agricultural education organization's mission to empower students to develop and fulfill a vision for themselves, their communities, the agricultural industry, and the nation.

More than 37,000 FFA members, advisers, supporters, and guests are expected to attend the convention Nov. 14-16 in the Municipal Auditorium and H. Roe Bartle Hall in Kansas City, Mo., only a few blocks from where the FFA was founded in 1928.

"FFA members from across the country come to the convention to strengthen their leadership skills, gain new ideas and focus their visions for themselves and the organization," said Larry D. Case, national FFA adviser. "It's a wonderful opportunity for students to look outside of their own communities and see that they're part of a large, vibrant, national organization. The pride and excitement these 37,000 students generate is amazing."

The national convention, the culmination of a year's activities for FFA members, is an opportunity for recognition, business, elections and celebration. Delegates from each state will discuss topics affecting the national organization and elect a new team of national officers. Exceptional members and supporters will receive awards for their achievement and commitment to the FFA. Students will compete in finals rounds of several events, including speaking and parliamentary procedure competitions.

Opportunities for personal growth and leadership development continue with presentations by educational and motivational speakers including Terry Bradshaw, nationally known sports broadcaster and former Super Bowl winning quarterback; Dr. Debbye Turner, veterinarian, former Miss America and St. Louis television show host; Guy Rice Doud, 1986 Teacher of the Year; Dr. Rick Rigsby, communications and leadership trainer; and Gordon MacKenzie, former creative director at Hallmark Cards. Other speakers will be announced as they are confirmed.

Future education and career exploration also are key components of the convention. Students will have the opportunity to meet business and industry supporters of the FFA, represented through the 1996 National FFA Foundation Sponsors' Board chaired by Allan R. Johnson, president of Farm Progress Companies, Inc. Hundreds of exhibitors will provide information about education and career possibilities at the concurrent National FFA Alumni Convention and FFA National Agricultural Career Show.

The national FFA officers, a team of six student leaders, help plan the convention and other activities and represent the FFA on a national level. The officers kick off the convention the afternoon and evening of Nov. 13 with the opening Reflections sessions, a series of dramatic and motivational presentations that generate excitement and set the theme for the convention. The 1995-1996 National FFA Officers are Seth Demer, national president from Bartlett, Neb.; Cody Wagner, national secretary from Banner, Wyo.; Joe Caffee, central region vice president from Geneva, Ind.; Bill Catania, eastern region vice president from Westfield, N.Y.; Clara-Leigh Horn, southern region vice president from Ashville, Ala.; and Andy McCall, western region vice president from Houston, Texas.

Ag College Welcomes Associate Dean

NEWARK, Del. — Dr. Patricia Barber, who claims to have never met a stranger, will bring her people and administrative skills to Delaware when she assumes the position of associate dean for extension and outreach at the University of Delaware College of Agricultural Sciences.

Barber has a long association with Cooperative Extension. From 1974 to 1990 she was a county extension director and home economics program leader for Florida Cooperative Extension. She worked as district extension director for Connecticut Cooperative Extension from 1990 to 1992 and most recently was a district extension director for North Carolina Cooperative Extension. In addition, in 1989, she was a research assistant and congressional staffer, for one of Florida's U.S. representatives during a sabbatical leave.

This southern dynamo is a people person — call her Pat, not Patricia — who doesn't stand on formality.

"I love people," Barber said. "And I excel in interacting. I love to find out what people are doing."

Her people skills have been honed during 20 years of management experience.

"When I first started, I was a boss," she said. "I told others what to do. But that doesn't always work. People want to make decisions together. I used my people skills to build a team."

"Now my style can be defined as very open. I'm what you could call a cheerleader for extension employees — dedicated people who work long hours. It doesn't hurt to praise them."

When Barber assumes the position of associate dean Sept. 1, she initially will spend time doing one of her favorite things: getting to know people and getting them comfortable enough to be involved in decision making.

"I'm interested in everyone's opinion," she said. "I plan to get out there and listen to people's concerns, visit county offices, producers, supporters, and non-supporters of extension, and perhaps hold a series of town meetings to find out where we are going, or where we should be going."

"I see the role of associate dean for extension and outreach as an important public relations position for the organization," she said. "I am in this position to support the people involved."

Barber acknowledges that being a woman in agriculture often brings challenges. In 1974, agriculture was a male world in Florida when Barber became a county extension director. In fact, she was the first female county director in the state.

"It was a big responsibility," she said. "It was important to open up the possibilities for women."

During her stint as county director she was an acting livestock agent working with cow-calf operations. This was also a first for a woman.

"The farmers were somewhat skeptical," she said. "But I became a part of what they were doing, working as the liaison between them and the university. After their initial hesitation they were with me. Technical competency and helping people mattered more than being male or female."

Barber holds a bachelor's degree in consumer economics from the University of Alabama, a master's in family economics from Purdue University, and a doctorate in educational leadership from the University of Florida. Although her formal education is not in a traditional agricultural area, Barber said, "It would be hard to hide my commitment to agriculture. My related area of study at Purdue was agricultural economics so I can talk the language of agriculture. I look forward to being an advocate for agricultural interests."

"The University of Delaware College of Agricultural Sciences and extension need to be strong and vital," she said. "All the pieces need to know each other well, so we can support each other. The monies going to non-traditional extension projects — youth at-risk, for example — are funds that have been earmarked for specific social programs. Extension does a wonderful job with these issues that are troubling society. And the more audiences we reach, the more support we get for extension, agriculture and the university. We need that support."

Barber's husband, Daryl, and their 4-year-old son, Anthony, will join her in Delaware in September. Daughter Daffiny lives with her husband, Tim Mathis, in Tennessee. Another daughter, Dena, resides in Florida.

New Holland, Caterpillar Logistics Services Break Ground

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — A new warehousing/distribution facility for New Holland North America, Inc. is under construction in Bellevue, Neb., near Omaha. Ground was broken in September for the project.

The 210,000-square-foot facility, scheduled to open in the spring of 1997, is the newest in a seven-location parts distribution network managed by Caterpillar Logistics Services for New Holland's North American dealers.

"Our goal is to provide our customers with superior quality products and services," said James R. Culkar, vice president, Logistics. "This facility is another step forward toward that goal. Caterpillar Logistics Services shares this goal with us, making us an outstanding team. The new Omaha facility will serve dealers from the Midwest to the Rocky Mountains and will help improve customer service to all New Holland's North American dealers."

"We've established a strong working relationship with New Holland and together have developed a reputation for superior customer service. The addition of this new distribution center will further enhance New Holland's responsiveness to customer needs," said Steven H. Wunning, president of Caterpillar Logistics Services.

Caterpillar Logistics Services, Inc., a subsidiary of Caterpillar Inc., has provided warehousing logistics information systems, transportation management and inventory management services to New Holland's parts operations since 1994.

8000 SERIES
PRO TWIN SLINGERS
Revolutionizes The V
Spreader Concept

The 8000 Series ProTwin SlingersTM can handle a wider range of materials than any other spreader. If you have pen pack, sticky feed lot or slurry-type material that needs to be spread fast... and spread evenly, you need the Knight ProTwin Slinger.

Retire Your Current Spreaders!

The 8000 Series ProTwin Slingers can handle a wider range of materials than any other spreader...

With the patented twin auger design, material circulates inside the unit. This unique action helps keep the load level during normal operation as well as during start-up, fine spreading, and closed-door turns.

As a result of the twin auger system and the steep angle sides, material bridging and excess forward movement of material are virtually eliminated, even in pen packed and sticky feed lot material.

Examine the material flow in the illustration below and note that the left auger moves material forward to the discharge hammers. The slightly raised right auger moves the material rearward while keeping the left auger evenly charged with material. It is this patented circulating action that makes the ProTwin so effective in handling the toughest material encountered in most applications.

Twin Auger Design History

The first ProTwin model, the Industrial 8030 unit, was introduced in the summer of 1993. The total acceptance of the ProTwin Slinger by agricultural and industrial operators in handling the toughest waste material has been phenomenal.

Originally, the 8030 ProTwin was targeted for industrial use. Today, the same design has been adapted to smaller models to meet the material handling needs of most applications. All of these models handle a wide range of materials, from tough pen pack and sticky feed lot material to slurry types of manure, as well as difficult industrial materials.

Front Drive Compartment* Simple Massive Reduction Drive

Each of the ProTwin models is designed for maximum, high torque output. The fully sealed front oil bath enclosures help ensure that chains and sprockets remain clean and well lubricated. The auger and expeller shafts are sealed to help eliminate oil contamination. Polyethylenetype spring loaded chain tighteners are used on all driveline chains for positive alignment and long life. Bearings can easily be greased through the external grease banks without removing the front drive shield. Splined shafts have been used in all high-torque areas to provide added strength and reliability.

PTO Driveline Constant Velocity PTO with Overload Clutch

Both 540 and 1000 RPM drivelines incorporate a constant velocity joint to provide a smooth transfer of power from the tractor to the unit. This relieves uneven stress on the drive train during normal turns and during operation over uneven terrain. The overload clutch provides protection for the expeller shaft and initial drive components. (There is no shear pin in the expeller drive.)

Cut-away view showing Patented Material Flow

Forged-Steel Hammer
Each hammer has a nylon bushing and a replaceable man-ganese steel wear plate.

PROTWIN BODY DESIGN
• STEEP ANGLE SIDES VIRTUALLY ELIMINATE THE POSSIBILITY OF MATERIAL BRIDGING
AND THE NEED FOR PLASTIC LINERS • CONTINUOUSLY WELDED HOPPER SEAMS
HELP ELIMINATE LEAKAGE
• COPPER BEARING STEEL IS USED THROUGH-OUT THE BODY OF THE SPREADER TO RESIST CORROSION AND EXTEND THE WORKING LIFE OF THE BODY

Hammer Expeller

The expeller on all ProTwin models features 15 forged steel hammers mounted on a 2 1/2" shaft. The hammers pivot on 3/4" bolts with nylon anti-seize type bushings that allow free movement. The expeller rotates at over 800 RPM allowing each eight pound hammer to swing down into the material, peeling it off and slinging it underhand in a fine spread pattern with no clumps.

The 3" wide, free swinging hammers absorb shock and tolerate most foreign objects. Each hammer is faced with a work-hardening manganese steel wear plate for longer life and low cost replacement. The adjustable shroud allows easy hammer clearance setting for optimum spread pattern width. This proven hammer expeller design enables fine spreading control and material calibration through the combination of the hydraulic door opening and ground speed.

Rear Drive Compartment*

The right auger is driven at the rear and is shear pin protected. Bearings, chains and sprockets are easily accessible for routine maintenance.

NEW TOUGHNESS OLD-FASHIONED DURABILITY

When the Case International 3800 Tandem Disk Harrow was introduced, it combined real improvements with the quality features of the 350, 370, and 475.

For instance, a 1 1/2 inch round arbor bolt the heart of every gang assembly.

Or consider the spring-cushion, self-leveling hitch. And, you'll disk confidently all day long using the mechanical depth control.

The 3800 is available in widths from 9 ft. 1 in. to 20 ft. 6 in. Just pick the 3800 that fits your power availability and tillage needs.

Buy your new cushion gang disk harrow right here in Quarryville 12', 14', 18' In Stock For Fall Tillage.
Competitive financing available - or - an extra rebate for cash

Leasing

- — — — —> No down payment.
Keep your money working for you where you need it!
- — — — —> Tax deductible.
Your lease payment is generally 100% tax deductible.
- — — — —> Lower payments.
Since payments are based on use during the lease, not the equipment's whole life, payments are usually lower.
- — — — —> Flexible terms.
Your lease terms are custom fit to your situation.
Length of lease — set up so you have the equipment during its prime.
Payment frequency — monthly, quarterly, semiannually, or yearly, your payments match your cash flow.
Purchase option — more choices! Buy the equipment, renew your lease or return it for a newer model.

Who Says Work Can't Be Fun?

Okay, so a full day of hauling isn't everyone's idea of fun. But it can be a little easier with the Polaris 2x4 400L with a new 400 engine that's liquid-cooled to take on more work. You also get a 200-watt alternator, 12 volt DC outlet and speedometer. And the renowned no-shift Polaris Variable Transmission (PVT) with new E-2 shift high, low and low range reverse. It's still work, but at least quitting time comes faster.

Polaris ATV's may not be ridden by anyone under 18 and all riders should take a safety course. For safety and training information see your dealer or call Polaris at 1-800-POLARIS. ATV's can be hazardous to operate. For your safety, never carry passengers, and never ride on paved surfaces or public roads.

POLARIS Believe It.

THIS WEEK'S SPECIAL

LAPP ENERGY-FREE DRINKER

Proven to Work Since 1984

- After marketing for 6 years our customers tell us it's still the best and unique drinker you can buy today.
- Units have non-siphoning all plastic 3/4" water valve
- Units have 3/4" PVC shut off-and-on ball valve right behind water valve
- Drinker lid is designed w/no grooves on top that can encourage bacteria-germs that could seep inside unit.
- The Poly-Drinkers are high density urethane foam insulated with drain plugs. Model #3009 has proven to work outside in our area with minimum - 2 horses - and maximum -50 head beef.

STEADY PERFORMANCE

ON THE JOB DAY-IN, DAY-OUT

New Holland grinder-mixers work hard every day, providing the feeding efficiency you expect from the industry leader.

The rugged hammermill gives un-matched capacity. Thick plates welded to the 21-3/8" heavy-duty hammermill shaft support the hardened hammers making the mill strong, durable, and smooth-running.

The optional electronic scale more than pays for itself by weighing accurately for more feed efficiency.

Durability...that's why New Holland mills continue to be the market leader.

NEW HOLLAND

BEST IN CLASS

BUILT TO LAST AS LONG AS YOU DO

The New Holland Model 185 is a spreader you won't buy too often...because it's going to be with you for a long time.

Here's why:

- Corrosion-resistant steel sides
- Indestructible plastic floor boards (HDPE)
- 12-year free replacement guarantee for floor and sides

The Model 185 carries a 287-bushel load with ease. We'd like to show you why this is the best-selling spreader in its class.

STEP UP TO THE POWER!

BE MORE PRODUCTIVE EVERY DAY

New Holland 60 Series GEMINI™ tractors deliver uncompromised power and versatile performance. POWER. Reliable 7.5 liter engines feature exceptional lugging ability. PERFORMANCE. The exclusive 18x6" Range Command™ transmission features six powershift gears in three ranges. Or, choose the new 23x12 Dual Command™ transmission. COMFORT. Exceptional visibility front to rear, plenty of legroom, easy-to-reach controls, two doors, comfortable seat and quiet interior. SERVICE. Exclusive flip-up hood allows total access to battery and filters.

TRACTORS THAT TAKE HARD WORK SERIOUSLY

- New Holland 35 Series tractors really pull their weight in the field.
- 4-cylinder, New Holland engines have good lugging capacity, and produce very little smoke or noise.
- The high-capacity 14.5 gpm hydraulic flow assures dependable operation.
- 3-point lift system, activated by a touch control, is best in class.
- Electro-hydraulic differential lock provides maximum traction when needed.

TOUGH

RELIABLE AND DURABLE

Need to handle the toughest jobs? Check out the Model L465 New Holland Super Boom™ skid-steer loader. The "L465" is built tough to give you superior performance and durability. The "L465" has a 30-horsepower, diesel engine and a 1,250-pound SAE operating load. It has a Pick Up™ universal attachment system so it's compatible with New Holland or competitive attachments. And, you can get to routine service points with the boom down. Stop in to see what makes New Holland Super Boom so tough.

GET INCREASED SPINNING ACTION

Save time and increase efficiency with a Model 28 New Holland forage blower. This 540-rpm blower features a 44-inch diameter hopper that center-fills silos up to 80 feet high. The Whirl-a-Feed™ rotary table spins crops into the blower housing, and material gets off to a fast start up the blower pipe. Spinning action breaks up heavy clumps, and virtually eliminates plugging.

THIS SPREADER'S GOT STAYING POWER

The Model 306 side-delivery spreader spreads slurry, free-stall, gutter, poultry and even most pen-packed manure cleanly and quickly. Offset auger paddles use power efficiently. Hydraulics control the spread pattern for a consistent spread rate. Get optional side extensions for 1700-gallon capacity. It's built so well it comes with a twelve-year tank warranty.

SERIES 5000 LAGOON PUMPS & SPREADER TANKS

Strength, power and reliability it's all here with the new Series 5000 Lagoon Pumps. These pumps have the perfect combination of agitation volume and pressure needed to break up hard surface crust or bottom manure solids with speed and power. And with up to 5000 GPM agitation capacity it can blast a stream of manure 100' or more in any direction to create an easy pumping and spreading slurry. The new Series 5000 trailer mounted or 3-point hitch by far the fastest and easiest to operate pumps on the market.

Van Dale Tanks are built to last with 1/4" steel plate and the best warranty in the business. And there's one built to match your needs, in sizes from 2700 - 5500 gallon capacities. Whichever you choose, you won't go wrong with a Waste Handler from Van Dale.

SWEEPSTER HYDRAULIC DRIVE SWEEPERS FOR SKID STEERS FOUR SEASONS - FOUR REASONS Power sweepers are multi-purpose four season, clean-up machines. Clean snow all winter from streets, driveways and building entrances. In the Spring, keep your sweeper busy removing debris from intersections and roadsides. Remove thatch and get turf areas in shape for the Summer growing season. Sweep gravel, sand and trash from bridges, parking lots and sidewalks. In the Fall, sweep up leaves and pine needles before the snow flies. Call For Details

ABC GROFF SKID STEER LOADER SPECIALISTS

SUPER BOOM

Super Boom has a low center of gravity to give you greater mobility, especially on steep grades.
Don't ever try going up a hill with an empty bucket on an ordinary skid-steer loader... getting to the top has never been their specialty.

In addition, Super Boom is packed with noise-reduction features that won't interfere with your thought process. The engine compartment is fully enclosed, the muffler is located under the hood and the intake system and dual-element air cleaner help control induction air noise. And, the operator system is isolated from the frame to reduce vibration.

NEW MAXEMERGE® PLUS PLANTERS

PUT THE INDUSTRY'S TOUGHEST ROW UNITS
TO WORK IN YOUR TOUGHEST CONDITIONS

Stronger mount and heavier-duty down-force system tackle no-till fields

- Welded mount maintains row-unit position
- Apply as much as 400 pounds of down-force per row to penetrate tough conditions

Cast closing-wheel arm and staggered closing wheels take on heavy trash

- Cast arm maintains alignment over the furrow
- Stagger the closing wheels for better trash flow

AP21

Introducing the all-new MaxEmerge Plus Planters. With over a dozen improvements, these planters have no equal in strength, convenience, and accuracy.

A stronger frame mounting bracket keeps each row unit in place. A reinforced shank provides unyielding strength on rolling ground and tough soils.

The cast closing-wheel arm keeps a more consistent alignment over the furrow.
And you can stagger closing wheels for better trash flow.

Stop by our dealership
today and see for yourself why MaxEmerge Plus Planters are the new equation for planting success.

Kubota Parts In Stock

We Ship Daily

KUBOTA'S HIGH EFFICIENCY, LOW NOISE TRACTOR

Kubota's new B2400 (24 HP) multi-functional tractor is extremely versatile and efficient, yet quietly powerful. Equipped with Kubota's new E-TVCS 3-cylinder, liquid-cooled low emissions - "low noise" engine and an enclosed muffler and enclosed exhaust pipe. Available in both 2WD and 4WD, a hydrostatic transmission - single pedal control of tractor speed and direction with no clutch, and Kubota's Bi-Speed Turn (reducing front wheel resistance) is optional. Power steering, mid- and rear-PTO, operator comfort features, Kubota's performance-matched loaders and a line of heavy-duty implements enhance production and efficiency.

Belarus

8011L • 81 HP

BEARUS VALUE. IN MORE WAYS THAN ONE.

Introducing two big changes in how small jobs get done. The 8011L and 9011L offer a low clearance design and tight turning radius that provide even higher levels of maneuverability. Yet they still manage to offer the same durability, value and affordability you expect from Belarus.

Choose from the 8011L and its tough 81 hp four cylinder water cooled engine or the 9011L's turbo charged 98 hp. Both engines have strong torque characteristics. Add it all up and you've got utility tractors ideal for every type of operation from orchards and vineyards to poultry operations and grounds maintenance.

But the exceptional value doesn't stop there. The 8011L and 9011L offer excellent lift capacity for front end loader applications. Other impressive features include power assisted steering and a fully adjustable seat for operator comfort and convenience.

Combined with their ease of maintenance and servicing, it's not hard to see how Belarus makes even the smallest jobs easier in a big way. That's Belarus value.

 The Harvesting Specialist

* This offer is subject to normal acceptance guidelines and down payment requirements. Binding customer to dealer purchase order is required

The corn cracker can be changed in 5 minutes to switch from corn to hay. The Jaguar's efficient processing produces quality silage for higher milk production.

The operator can safely sharpen the chopping knives and precisely adjust the shearbar from the driver's seat automatically.

The efficient cutting system has a full width metal detector, 30" wide chevron cutting drum and full width 8-blade accelerator

The unique top-to-back cooling system with rotary air screen assures excellent, clean cooling

Service is easy because compartment covers quickly swing open to provide easy access to the engine and cooling system

Award Winning POWER.

The MF 6100 and MF 8100 Series tractors have earned a coveted AE50 award, presented by the American Society of Agricultural Engineers for outstanding innovations in product and systems technology.

It's simply more proof that these 86-180 PTO hp* performers are the best when it comes to power and efficiency.

Stop by today to find out more about these award-winners!
